WILLARD TAKING COUNT BEFORE 100,000 FANS IN BATTLE WITH FIRPO

HOW KANSAS GIANT, SEEKING PUGILISTIC COMEBACK, WAS K. O'D. BY "BULL OF THE PAMPAS"

Photo at the left shows the ex-heavyweight champion down and out on the canvas early in the ninth round. Up until this session the erstwhile mighty Willard had thrilled the record crowd of fight fans by the showing he had made against the grimly-smiling, heavy-hitting mauler of the Argentine plains. The latter drove home the whirling blow just one minute and fifty-five seconds after the eighth round began. Willard received the wallop on the jaw, sagged to the floor and made a game but futile effort to rise. His dreams of a comeback failed as the referee counted the fatal ten. Photo at right shows Firpo crashing Willard back to the ropes with a near-haymaker just before the Kansan went down to stay.

WEST END GIRL TRIES TO POISON SELF ON ESPLANADE

Katherine Kuchinsky of No. 8 Billerica street, West End, drank the contents of a bottle of poison near the Cambridge street bridge. She was seen to fall by Patrolman Leo Pelham of the Metropolitan Park Police, who sent her to the Massachusetts General Hospital, where she was held for observation. She would give no reason for her attempt at suicide.

CAMBRIDGE GIRL RUNS AWAY; FEARS ADENOIDS OPERATION

Fearing an operation for removal of adenoids, scheduled for today, ten-year-old Elizabeth Richardson of No. 210 Harvard street, Cambridge, ran away from home and, after spending the night in Revere, was picked up by the Lynn police today and held for her daddy.

When found by the police she was headed for her grandmother's home, where she expected asylum. Elizabeth's little brother's adenoids were removed last week and she figured that, judging from the annoyance he suffered it would be much better to retain hers.

Arthur Brisbane's Story of Fight

The following account of the fight between North and South America, Willard against Firpo, was written by Mr. Brisbane sitting beside the ring. Mr. Brisbane's account was sent by telegraph a few lines at a time, the last lines being given to the operator at his elbow a minute after the fight was over. The account is printed here as written, without changes. If the Willard-Firpo part alone interests you skip toward the end of the narrative:

By Arthur Brisbane

THEY PUT on the preliminaries at eight-thirty. Now, at half past nine, a crowd of 100,000 has been enjoying itself for one hour.

Two heavyweights, Kramer of California, 195 pounds, is fighting tiny Jim Herman of Omaha, 218 pounds.

AS YOU approach the arena, you know that the crowd is seeing what it likes. There come at intervals deep roars, such as make children shiver when they enter the lion house at feeding time. Each roar means a blow on the face of the other. A louder growl means that the blow has brought fresh blood.

THE CROWD enjoys, literally, the pain that one man inflicts on the other. "Ah, that set him back a little," as Tiny Jim opens a cut over Kramer's eye.

JAW PUNCH ENDS FIGHT

By JACK CONWAY

Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, N. J., July 13.—Luis Firpo, sensational "Wild Bull of the Pampas," today stands ready to knock Jack Dempsey from the heavyweight throne as a result of his eight-round victory over Jess Willard, former world's champion, before 100,000 persons. This was the greatest crowd ever to pay to witness a sporting event in America.

Firpo knocked out Willard with a terrific right-hand punch to the jaw. Jess went to the canvas in his own corner with his knees upon the canvas, his hands beating frantically about the ring, his head shaking from side to side. The giant Kansan attempted to regain his feet. He was unable to do so, and was counted out by Referee Harry Lewis.

The ending of the bout was a com

PAPPAS IN VAIN PLEA

By JACK SWERLING

Paul Pappas' pride has broken. He begs for life.

Shortly after a conference with John P. Feeney and John W. Schenck, his present and former counsel, he called Warden William Hendry and asked for some one who could write a letter to Governor Cox.

A prison official acted as amenuensis.

Pappas asked the Governor for mercy. And he ended the letter by dictating:

"Save me from the chair so that I may have a chance to prove that I am innocent."

WRITTEN IN VAIN.

That letter was written in vain. The Governor has stated his position in the matter. But the letter was delivered to the Governor, and the message went back to Pappas that the Governor, through his secretary, would be available at all hours of the day or night to receive evidence

8 MAYORS IN PHONE STRIKE PARLEY

Eight mayors of New England cities, officials of the telephone company and striking operators today conferred on the telephone strike situation at Providence City Hall.

The public officials went to the meeting determined that the strike be settled without further delay.

Company heads, including President Matt B. Jones, repeated at the last minute that they would not arbitrate.

20-CENT GASOLINE SOON, OIL DEALER'S PREDICTION

At the New England office of the Jenney Oil Company it was predicted there will soon be a further drop in the price of gasoline, probably to twenty cents a gallon. The market has been weak for the past few weeks, and a few days ago crude oil dropped twenty-five points. At present the market price of gasoline is twenty-one and a half cents wholesale. The standard retail price is twenty-four cents.

which would tend to establish the innocence of the man who is otherwise doomed to die shortly after midnight tonight.

As the letter was going to the Governor, a meeting of Greeks was in progress at the headquarters of the Pan-Crecan Association of Greek Societies in Boston.

TERMED MARTYR.

Every Greek in America awaits today's developments in this case, unique in the history of Massachusetts.

Speaking for the organization, Charles Mallotis an officer said:

"If they electrocute Paul Pappas they will kill not a murderer, but a martyr.

"District Attorney O'Brien has gone on record with the statement that if Pappas committed the crime for which he is condemned to die—the murder of Mrs. Alice Arsenault—he did it in a fit of passion. That makes it manslaughter.

"When the prosecuting officer of the State makes such an admission it bears additional strength.

"The law does not permit capital punishment for manslaughter.

"In addition to that, Attorney Feeney made a perjurer out of Mrs. Theresa Saulnier, chief witness against Pappas. He showed her to be not only a self-confessed liar, but a forger as well. He showed Joseph Kallakis, another witness against Pappas, to be a perjurer.

SLANDER EVIDENCE.

"Further, the remaining evidence against Pappas was the most slender of circumstantial evidence.

"How can the state kill a man for a crime for which the statutes prohibit capital punishment, when the state's attorney himself claims it was murder in the second degree, and not presses a first degree murder charge.

"It is an incredible stand. The Greeks of America feel that rank injustice has been done. We have received letters and telegrams from all parts of the country protesting against the miscarriage of justice. Pappas did not get a fair trial. Innocent or guilty, he is entitled to that.

"His own brother Gregoris visited him tonight and with tears in his eyes begged him to admit his guilt. Paul said to him: 'How can I lie that I am innocent.'

SEALS HIS DOOM.

"We understand that Governor Cox is going away tomorrow to Nova Scotia. I think that seals the doom of Pappas.

"But we are not going to let the case die, even if Paul does.

"We are going to try to find out why a justice of a Massachusetts court denied a new trial to a man convicted of first degree murder after the prosecuting attorney had accused the first degree murder charge.

"We want to know why Pappas was denied a new trial after the principal witnesses against him were proved to be perjurers.

"We want to know, why, in view of these facts, no move was made to extend clemency which would permit this man to establish the innocence he has maintained ever since his arrest.

Palpably this case has gone beyond the case of Paul Pappas.

"It involves a bigger issue than the life of a man.

"It involves the issue of justice. If State's Attorney O'Brien were a big enough man, he would take the initiative in the move to gain time for Pappas, in the move to prevent him from being killed tonight."

Meanwhile, the defense attorney who dropped out of the case when Feeney was drawn into it as Pappas' counsel, is so convinced of Pappas' innocence and of what he considers a grave evasion of his rights, that he stated last night he would call on Lieutenant Governor Fuller.

EXPERT FIXES CHAIR.

In the meantime, an electrical expert arrived today from New York State. All morning he tinkered with switches, electrodes and other details of a chair which stands in the State's prison at Charlestown.

Unless a miracle happens, Pappas is destined to be led to that chair, to be seated in it, to listen to legal words he will not understand.

ALL WILL BE OVER.

He will be blindfolded, and from behind a screen the electrical expert from Sarasaan will pull a switch.

The mortal part of Pappas will twitch and strain at the leathern bonds, and then it will be all over.

The one question that is being handled about the prison today is this:

"Will Pappas confess?"

Despite concerning rumors of a last moment confession, the consensus is that Pappas will die with a plea of innocence on his lips. Pappas cannot speak English very well, but there are sentences he can enunciate so unmistakably English.

He has said it so many times that it has become a slogan with him.

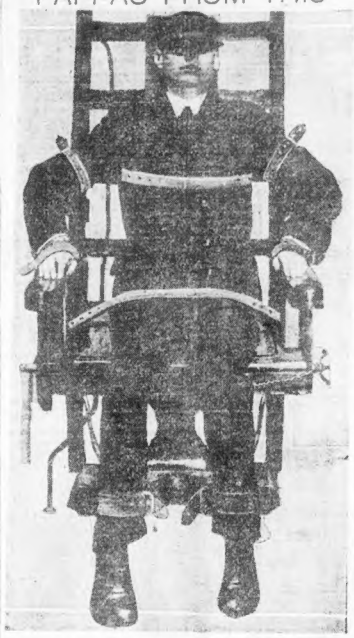
Broken as a result of the news that his mother had died as the direct result of his plight, Pappas doesn't seem to care.

The letter was carried to Pappas Curran waited eagerly for the answer. The executioner came out after a while.

"Will he tell me the truth?" asked Curran.

"Yes. He says he is innocent."

WILL "MIRACLE" SAVE PAPPAS FROM THIS



PAUL PAPPAS AS HE WILL MEET DEATH

The picture shows Paul Pappas, convicted as the slayer of Mrs. Alice Arsenault, as he will appear in the electric chair at midnight, unless—there is still an "unless." An application for executive clemency is being made to Governor Cox, an eleventh-hour effort to save Pappas from death.

WOOD EMBARGO LAW STIRS U. S.

Washington, July 13.—Administration officials are much disturbed over the action of the Canadian Parliament in passing a law authorizing the Governor General to place an embargo on the exportation of pulpwood. The State Department disclosed that the United States is taking up the matter with Canada to point out the serious consequences to the paper and publishing industries in this country if the Governor General should exercise the discretion placed in his hands and prohibit such an embargo.

BOYS ON BICYCLE INJURED BY AUTO

Two boys were injured when the bicycle on which they were riding collided with an automobile operated by Hyman Farber of No. 7 Bremen street, Dorchester, on Broadway, East Somerville. The injured boys were removed to the Cambridge Relief Hospital. They are Joseph Roberts, 13 years old, of No. 45 Auburn avenue, Somerville, and Melvin W. Merrill, 14 years old of No. 53 Washington street, Somerville, Roberts, who was operating the bicycle, suffered a fractured leg and other injuries. Merrill, who was riding on the handle bars, was cut about the face.

8 MAYORS AT PHONE PARLEY

Miss Julia S. O'Connor, leader of the operators, comprised Miss May H. Brady of Providence, Anna M. Foley of Worcester, Mary L. Wynne of Springfield, Margaret B. Hoehn of Brockton, Elizabeth Carey of Lynn, Mary F. O'Brien, Mary A. Lally and Mary L. Brooks of Boston.

The conference, which started at noon, was expected to last throughout the afternoon. Mayor Peter F. Sullivan of Worcester, who first called the meeting of mayors, was hopeful for immediate settlement.

Although company officials today declared improved service was being given in exchanges throughout New England, it was noted that in several cities they posted "Temporarily out of service" signs at pay stations for the purpose of cutting down the number of calls.

Those on the square yellow cards were large book type which are employed to mark short pay station phones set out of order.

At strike headquarters it was said that the situation remains about the same as it has for several days past.

DEPOSED TEACHERS HEARD AT REVERE

Hearings on the petitions of Leroy E. Sweetser and William F. Pollard, Jr., deposed principal of the Junior High School and assistant principal of the Senior High School for reinstatement, were began before Auditor Elias Field in Revere City Hall. Mr. Field will make a report later to Judge Pierce of the Supreme Court. The two teachers entered their removal as political and appointment as teachers was due to politics.

Attorney Herbert E. Parker and former Senator Andrew A. Canassa represent the teachers, and City Solicitor Samuel R. Cutler appears for the school committee.

MURDER CHARGE AGAINST BURGLAR

Thompsonville, Conn., July 13—Lawrence Cisek, 40, who was slashed with a razor by a burglar in his room here June 20, died in a hospital in Springfield, Mass. Anthony Salwa, alleged assistant of Cisek, is being held in the Hartford County Jail on a charge of burglary with violence, which State's Attorney Alcorn said would be changed to murder.

U. S. IN ACCORD WITH BRITISH PREMIER

Washington, July 13, I.N.S.—One fact stood out above all else here to day in the discussion of Premier Stanley Baldwin's statement of the British attitude toward the French occupation of the Ruhr, namely, that the views of the United States and of Great Britain are practically identical.

Because this government has no official connection with the Reparations problem, no comment was forthcoming at the State Department as to the reaction of the admission toward Baldwin's speech. But the premier's outline of policy is known to be pleasing to Secretary Hughes, because it largely embraces the principles laid down by him at New Haven, Conn., on December 29, 1922.

In this speech Secretary Hughes disapproved of the plans of Premier Poincare to speed up reparations payments by force of arms although he held it to be necessary that Germany should pay to the limit of her capacity.

His suggestion for the establishment of an international commission of economic experts to decide how much Germany can pay has already received the O. K. of the German government, and there are now indications that it is to be approved by Great Britain.

77 GOLF ACES TEE OFF IN NATIONAL OPEN PLAY

Inwood, N. Y., July 13 (A.P.)—Seventy-seven golfers, survivors of a field of 340 over the well trapped Inwood Country Club course in four days of qualifying rounds, will start today on the first half of the 72-hole play for the national open championship.

Included in the survivors are the nation's leading amateurs and the "Big Five" of the professional ranks, among them Gene Sarazen, last years' winner.

Robert T. "Bobby" Jones of Atlanta, who finished within a stroke of the winning card at Skokie last year; Jess W. Sweetser of New York, Francis Ouimet of Boston, once winner of the open championship, and Charles "Chick" Evans of Chicago, led the amateur representation.

Sarazen, Walter Hagen, Jock Hutchison, Jim Barnes, Joe Kirkwood and MacDonald Smith were the stars of the professionals. Young John Farrell of Mamaroneck, N. Y., who yesterday tied Jim Barnes in the lead over the field, is considered one of the dark horses.

Jones' driving was the longest and most accurate of any of the qualifiers. The tee shots of Bob Cruikshank, a Canadian professional, were distanced on almost every hole by the Atlantan.

The first pair called to the tee today for the championship round were Abe Espinosa of Oakland, Cal., and Cruickshank. Ouimet and Leo Diegel were partners. Gene Sarazen had Evans for a companion; Jones and Hagen were paired; John Black and Jock Hutchison were drawn together and Kirkwood and MacDonald Smith were comrades.

5 LOST IN FURIOUS STORM; MANY SHIPS DRIVEN ASHORE

Montevideo, July 13 (AP).—Three days of storm and flood have wrought damage to the city and harbor estimated at $1,000,000. Five lives were lost, it is believed.

The British freighter Trefusis is aground off the Uruguayan coast and an Antwerp liner has been delayed her reported "S. O. S." calls.

STUDENTS SNORE IN RADIO, NAVY MEN'S LAST LAUGH

Washington, July 13.—Navy instructors apparently are to have the last laugh on the hoking contest which followed announcement of plans to teach radio to sleeping students.

Official reports from Pensacola, Fla., where the innovation was inaugurated, declare "the experimental stage in the trials is past and the method may now be termed a standard one."

"When the test was started," the report said, "twelve students were unsatisfactory in their progress. After two nights during which the radio code was sent to these students in their sleep, only two were unsatisfactory, and those two men had left the class before the experiment was finished."

STOP LIQUOR OR QUIT, OHIO CHIEF TELLS MAYORS

Columbus, O., July 13.—Mayors of six Ohio cities and villages and sheriffs of four counties were under orders today from Governor Donahey to stop violations of the anti-gambling and prohibition laws or get off the job.

In letters to the officials the governor named persons and places. The mayors are those of Newark, Wogan, Chauncey, Put-in-Bay, Haskins and Chagrin Falls. The sheriffs include "Bob" Ewing of Auglaize County, former Cincinnati baseball star.

MINERS' HOMES DYNAMITED IN COAL UNIONISTS' WAR

Pittston, Pa. (I.N.S.).—Four homes in this city, one that of Alex Campbell, leader of the insurgent element of the United Mine Workers of America, in the Pittston district, were dynamited within fifteen minutes today.

Front porches were blown to splinters and furniture wrecked and persons thrown from their beds, but no one was injured.

The first explosion was in Campbell's home, the second in the home of Charles Alba, the third at the home of Michael Tecalve and the fourth at the home of Joseph Martinetti.

Campbell is chairman of the General Grievance Committee of the Pennsylvania Coal Company and the Hillside Coal and Iron Company. He presided at a union meeting last night and turned down the proposition for a general strike in the Pittsburgh district.

CONFESS THEFTS, SENT TO PRISON

EXTRADITION OF MAN FREED IN PAYROLL THEFT SOUGHT

New York police have made requisition for the extradition of Herbert Shaughnessy, found not guilty by a Suffolk county jury of robbing the payroll of the New England Telephone Company. Shaughnessy is wanted in New York for the larceny of an automobile. Attorneys John P. Feeley and Frederick W. Mansfield, former Democratic candidate for Governor, as to the rights of the strikers.

Strike leaders had great difficulty in restraining strikers from the immediate return to picketing and clashes with the police. President Lacouture of the strikers' union pleaded with the strikers as follows:

"We cannot return to picketing and thereby put the life of every striker in danger, until we are sure we are right. We must take a little time to make sure. The strike has only just begun."

FATHER TO SAVE MAN ACCUSED AS ABSCONDER

Pawtucket, R. I., July 13.—Thirty girl employes of the J. & P. Coats thread factory, who lost in the aggregate a sum of several hundred dollars when Arthur Plaubert absconded with their vacation savings, will not be "out" a single penny.

"I will pay every cent that is alleged to have been stolen by my son. I will make restitution for every discrepancy found in the account handled by my son.

This promise was made by the boy's father, a fireman attached to the Park street fire station, to both the girls concerned and to the police authorities.

"These girls need not be afraid," the senior Plaubert said. "I will see that every girl is paid back the full sum of her deposit."

WEDS MISS FENWICK IN ROME

Noted Actor and His Leading Lady, Both Divorced, in Ceremony Tomorrow

Rome, July 13.—"We will be married tomorrow."

So today declared Lionel Barrymore, famous actor and brother of Jack and Ethel, recently divorced in Providence, R. I.

Lionel's bride will be Irene Fenwick, stage star and Barrymore's leading woman last season. They sailed for Europe last month, on the same boat. Both are divorced and some doubt was expressed here today as to whether the ceremony could be performed tomorrow. Miss Fenwick's divorce from her second husband, James F. O'Brien, New York broker, having been granted only two months ago. The wedding tomorrow, Mr. Barrymore said, would take place before an Italian registrar.

The announcement of the wedding will cause no surprise along Broadway's White Way. It has been rumored for almost a year that the actor and his leading lady were madly in love and contemplating marriage. When they sailed together on the same boat Broadway said, "That settles it."

Barrymore was divorced by Mrs. Doris Rankin Barrymore, herself of a famous theatrical family, in December last. The hearing was private. A prominent actress was named in the case, but her name was never made public. The decree was an interlocutory one, becoming final late March.

Miss Fenwick divorced O'Brien after having him trailed to a New York apartment by private detectives. She said she had found jewelry purchased for another woman charged on her accounts. Her first husband was Felix Isman, wealthy realtor of New York and Philadelphia.

LEADER OF SOCIETY IN MAN HUNT

Mrs. Persifor Frazer Joins Posse Searching for Assailant of Pretty Governess

Narragansett Pier, July 13.—Under orders of Chief of Police Frank J. Smith, to "shoot on sight and shoot to kill," Mrs. Persifor Frazer, wealthy Philadelphian society women, is with a posse of citizens in an advance on the outskirts of this resort, where a negro, who attacked Mrs. Frazer's governess, is believed to be in hiding.

Thomas Johnson, negro gardener employed on Mrs. Frazer's Summer estate here, attacked pretty Mary Llewellyn, governess employed by Mrs. Frazer, bound and gagged her, brutally assaulted her, and after robbing the house fled to the swamp.

Mrs. Llewellyn, unconscious for more than an hour, regained consciousness long enough to inform the Rev. Thomas Bone what had happened, and again lapsed into unconsciousness. Her condition is serious.

MINISTER GIVES ALARM.

The Rev. Mr. Bone notified the police and the neighbors. Mrs. Frazer was the first to take definite action toward the capture of the assailant.

Armed with shotguns, rifles and revolvers, a posse of Summer residents and natives joined in the man hunt. Johnson is believed to be heavily armed.

"We want this man, dead or alive," declared Chief Smith. "I have ordered every member of the posse to shoot to kill the moment they see the negro."

POSSE SEARCHES SWAMP.

Throughout the night, guided by search lights, members of the posse waded knee-deep in the muck and the mud of the swamplands and continued the search for the negro.

The posse has formed a complete circle around the swamp and is gradually closing in toward the center, with every possible avenue of escape guarded.

Police from a score of cities and towns are watching the roads for the appearance of Johnson.

Mrs. Llewellyn was attacked while she slept, alone in the palatial Summer residence except for two small children of Mrs. Frazer. Johnson had been employed on the estate but a few days.

After attacking the woman, the negro gagged her and bound her hand and foot to a bed-post. He then looted the house, armed himself and fled.

READ GREAT NOVEL IN AMERICAN

Gertrude Atherton's Gripping Story, "Black Oxen," to Appear Shortly

Black Oxen!

The greatest American novel ever written by a woman.

The best selling book of the year 1923.

A novel which has gripped every woman, who read it.

A novel which has caused unprecedented discussion among women. In church rooms, sewing circles, home, tea, everywhere women gather one question is always started a buzz of excitment

"Have you read Black Oxen?"

Gertrude Atherton

That is the question and there is a beehive buzz in the comment which follows.

Yet strangely enough the title of this great book is misleading. Black Oxen! You picture a great, cumbersome, stupid faced beast crawling over a pastoral scene. But Black Oxen is breathless, vibrant with pulsating love, dramatically portrayed and with the strangest plot ever conceived. A woman who should be a wrinkled grandmother returns to her old time friends, youthful, passionate and beautiful. She falls in love. He is young. Her old time friends think she is——

But you will read it in the BOSTON AMERICAN. It starts within ten days. When you start it you will NOT drop it. Your cooking will be neglected while you read it. You'll neglect your husband, your family. Because BLACK OXEN holds you. It grips you. In the beautiful woman portrayed you behold yourself if only the elusive "It might have been" could be.

Pursuant of a policy formed some time back the BOSTON AMERICAN set out to give its readers BEST SELLERS in serial form. It costs a lot of money because Best Sellers come high. But it has paid. The return was electrical. The BOSTON AMERICAN found that newspaper readers want Best Sellers, not cheap, semi-popular fiction known in the trade as "Second Serials." The Boston American printed Rupert Hughes' famous novel, "Souls For Sale," then "Flaming Youth," one of the most widely popular novels ever written. Its author is Warner Fabian. The American follows this treat with what critics and publishers term, "The best American novel ever written by a woman," the best seller of the year, "BLACK OXEN."

It is costing thousands of dollars but that is the American's way. Nothing but the best. So now prepare for "Black Oxen." It is a novel you'll never forget.

REV. PAINE RELIEVED OF JOB

Rector Sherrill Announces the Withdrawal of Invitation to Preach

The Rev. George Lyman Paine, the "kissing parson," has been relieved of his assignment to preach at Trinity Church on Sunday.

The Rev. Henry K. Sherrill, rector of Trinity Church, now vacationing at Ridgefield, Conn., announced that the amorous "smoothy tickling" affair with the fair wife of the two-fisted Lieutenant Hague has led to Pastor Payne's retirement.

TRIED TWICE TO QUIT.

Twice has Rev. Payne sought to have his acceptance of the invitation to preach at Trinity Church withdrawn. The first time he failed.

Edward E. Miller, sexton of Trinity, mailed the usual church notices to the congregation to the effect that Mr. Payne would officiate at the Sunday services.

The Rev. Payne sent a second letter of withdrawal to Dr. Sherrill at Ridgefield.

"I want to make this offer in order not to embarass Trinity Church in the slightest degree," said the Rev. Payne, "and if Dr. Sherrill feels that I should not conduct the services, I will withdraw."

STILL SECRETARY.

Dr. Sherrill's release will be received by Mr. Payne today.

Mr. Payne is continuing his work as secretary of the Federation of Churches.

The Rev. Mr. Paine and his wife, vacationing in a Maine resort, is fully informed regarding the "wee peck of a kiss" he forced on Mrs. Hague, and of what transpired between members of the Hague family after the incident. He said Mrs. Paine approved of his offer to resign as executive secretary of the Boston Federation of Churches.

"I have been in communication with her wife," said the Rev. Mr. Paine. "She is aware of the situation and has assured me she understands and sympathizes with me in my trials. She is a good, true and loyal wife."

Lieutenant and Mrs. Hague are making final preparations for sailing for California.

The pretty Summer dress worn by Mrs. Hague in the Belmont timothy meadow where the kissing occurred is their ashes. She could not bear to wear the dress again, she said, so even to scrub it by burning it, at least part of an unpleasant memory was wiped out, she said.

The directors of the Federation will not meet for about a month to take final action on the Rev. Mr. Paine's tendered resignation. Meanwhile the preacher will continue in office.

Lieutenant Hague will be best man tonight at the wedding of Miss Hortensia Fabian, No. 148 Johnson street, Lynn, when she becomes the bride of Lieutenant DeWitt Clinton Reid, Jr., U. S. N., a brother of Mrs. Hague, and a classmate of Lieutenant Hague at Annapolis.

U. S. SENATOR DILLINGHAM OF VERMONT DEAD

Montpelier, Vt., July 13.—United States Senator William P. Dillingham of Vermont died here late last night.

Senator Dillingham underwent an operation at the Heaton Hospital here three weeks ago for gall trouble. He rallied and appeared on the way to recovery until last Sunday, when his condition took a turn for the worse.

Funeral services will be held in the Methodist Episcopal Church in Waterbury, the Senator's native town, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Senator Dillingham was born in December, 1843, son of Paul Dillingham who was Governor of Vermont from 1865 to 1867. After obtaining an academic education he studied law and was admitted to the Vermont bar in 1867. He served as State's attorney of Washington County, secretary of civil and military affairs twice, in both branches of the Legislature and as commissioner of State taxes.

He was Governor of Vermont from 1888 to 1890 and was elected U. S. Senator in 1900 to complete the unexpired term of Justin S. Morrill. He was re-elected in 1914 and 1920. In 1907 he was chairman of the United States Immigration Commission.

The Senator had made his home in Montpelier since his admission to the bar but had maintained much interest in his native town, where he had been president of the Waterbury National Bank since 1890.

He was married in 1874 to Mary Ellen Shipman of Lisbon, N. H.

GENERALS SEE SHAM BATTLE AT DEVENS

Camp Devens, July 13.—A cordial military reception was given Major-General Andre W. Brewster, commander of the First Corps Area, and Charles F. Farnsworth, chief of infantry at Washington, on their visit to the camp here. After a 13-inch gun salute by the Seventh Field Artillery, they inspected the cantonment and the reserve officers' quarters.

Three companies of the 12th Infantry with artillery, tanks and an airplane, staged a company attack, for the officers of the 94th Division at the new artillery range on the outskirts of the camp. The objective was machine "position" on the east side of the range. The cracking of rifles, the fire of the big guns on the hill, the advance of the infantry men and the tanks and the barrage of the artillery furnished the spectators with a realistic conception of actual warfare.

TWO ALLEGED BOY BANDITS CAUGHT

Chicopee, July 13—James Wilson of Front street and Edward Tyburski of Center street, each 16 years old, alleged bandits, were arrested charged with assaulting and robbing Jacob Karas, storekeeper, of No. 516 Front street of $45.

The boys confessed, the police state, that they knocked Karas unconscious with a piece of lead pipe.

ATLANTA WAVES ELKS GOOD-BY

Atlanta, Ga., July 13.—Atlanta today bade good-by to thousands of Elks who a week ago came to the Georgia capital from every State in the Union, Alaska, Porto Rico and the distant Philippines, to attend the fifty-ninth annual reunion and convention of their grand lodge.

Nearly 1,500 couples were entertained at the watermelon ball in the civic auditorium. John McClelland, general chairman of the entertainment committee, presented the prizes to winning bands which competed in the band contest Wednesday afternoon. First prize was awarded to the band representing the Buffalo, N. Y., lodge.

The Elks dispersed to meet next year in Boston.

MISSING TAUNTON GIRL IS SOUGHT

Mrs. Jessie Lemon of Plain street, Taunton, has appealed to the Boston American to assist her in finding her daughter, Miss Clara Lemon, of the same address, who disappeared from home about six months ago. Miss Lemon is twenty-five years old, about five feet eight inches tall, brunette, and weighs about 125 pounds.

CHIEF HILL TO HEAD TRAFFIC EXPERTS

Worcester, July 13. — Chief of Police George H. Hill has been selected as president of the International Bureau of Traffic, to succeed President J. C. Calhoun of Pittsburgh, and will take office Aug. 1.

PREDICTS GOOD CROP FUTURE FOR ALASKA

Aboard U. S. S. Henderson with President Harding, July 13 (A.P.)—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, after consultation with agents of his department and with her experts interested in the agricultural development of Alaska, announced today his conviction that the future will see great development of farming in the territory, but that its country will never produce crops beyond the needs of Alaskans themselves.

Mr. Wallace made a statement to this effect in conference with newspaper men on the Henderson, accompanying President Harding on a tour of Alaska during the voyage from Skagway to Seward, where the party lands today to travel to Fairbanks over the Alaska Railroad.

The United States Navy Band, detailed to the Henderson, endeavored during the voyage from Tacoma to give its daily concerts as much "local color" as possible. The concert the first night out began with Sousa's march, "Nobles of the Mystic Shrine," in recognition of the President's membership in the Shrine.

Mrs. Harding's favorite "The End of a Perfect Day," was played at almost every concert.

COAL MINE WAGE PARLEY ADJOURNS

Atlantic City, N. J., July 13.—Anthracite operators and miners, here for a week in a preliminary discussion of demands by the men for a new wage agreement effective September 1, adjourned today until July 23. The operators so far have agreed to meet the demands for addition of the twelve-hour day as soon as practicable and that, when a grievance has been referred by the Conciliation Board to the umpire, he shall render a decision within thirty days.

BREAKS ANKLE IN FALL OFF STAGING

Fred Hixon, forty-five years old and married, living at No. 29 Gilman street, Somerville, who fell from a staging in an airshaft in the subway, near Scollay square station, is at the Relief Station suffering from a fracture of the right ankle. Hixon is an iron worker.

FRENCH SEIZE TOWNS NEAR COBLENZ

Dusseldorf, July 13. (A.P.)—The town of Limburg, just beyond the Coblenz bridgehead which the American—formerly held, was occupied by French troops yesterday as a permanent occupation town.

Hanover, in the Ellerfeld manufacturing district, also was occupied by a detachment of French troops. Several of the Hanover city officials were arrested, after which the French withdrew.

Berlin, July 13. (A.P.)—French troops entered Barmen this morning and early this afternoon were marching on Elberfeld, says a report received here.

The big industrial towns of Elberfeld and Barmen are located close together on the immediate edge of the Ruhr region, east of Dusseldorf. They are virtually surrounded by occupied territory, but have not been regarded as strictly within the area of occupation.

FREED OF MURDER IN NEGRO LYNCHING CASE

Columbia, Mo., July 13.—With the acquittal here of George Barkwell, facing trial with murder in connection with the lynching April 29 of James T. Scott, negro, and with the dismissal of another case arising from the lynching and confinement of three others, prosecutions were at a standstill today. Barkwell was charged by the State to have tied a rope around Scott's neck and to have passed him over a rail on a garage here. The negro had been accused of attempted assault on a white girl.

LOAN DROP SHOWS FARM STABILITY

Washington, July 13.—Evidence of a gradual restoration of commercial stability, particularly in agriculture, was given today in a report by the War Finance Corporation for the fiscal year ending June 30. The corporation's advances aggregated only $48,701,000 while more than $146,000,000 was repaid in loans. Repayments in the previous year totalled $142,000,100 and loans $279,000,000.

LOOTED WARREN BANK TO PAY 40 PER CENT.

Warren, July 12.—Depositors of the First National Bank of Warren which was looted of more than $200,000 by its president, Frank L. Taylor, and Joseph Marcino, will receive a dividend of 40 percent.

Announcement of the payment was made today by James E. Farrell, receiver of the defunct institution. Payment will begin as soon as claims are proved.

The bank closed its doors last February. Taylor was arrested in Chicago but Marcino was never caught. He is believed to have carried away with him about $150,000 of the bank's funds.

ROXBURY FIGHTER LANDS IN HOSPITAL

Victor Chemaya, seventeen years old, of No. 768 Columbus avenue, Roxbury, is in the City Hospital with injuries to his abdomen and hip following a free for all fight in front of No. 646 Huntington avenue. When the police arrived they found Chemaya lying on the ground. His assailants had fled.

"TOBACCO-LESS" DAY FOR GERMANS AUG. 2

Berlin, July 12.—August 2 will be "cigarette-less day" in Germany. Cigar smokers and snuff users will also be without their daily ration as the German tobacconists have agreed to close their shops on that date in protest against increased taxes. There is now a 57 per cent. tax on tobacco. The cheapest cigarette in Germany costs 800 marks.

WOMAN WHO KILLED SON IS FREED

On the recommendation of Assistant District Attorney Henry P. Fielding and the testimony of Dr. Charles B. Sullivan of the Psychopathic Hospital, Judge Lummus placed on file an indictment against Mrs. Elizabeth Keezer charging her with having on November 30, 1921, killed her twelve-year old son at the Adams House while mentally deranged.

At that time she endeavored to take her own life.

Dr. Sullivan said that Mrs. Keezer, who had been confined at the Boston State Hospital since the day of the killing, was now sane and it would be safe to allow her freedom if she were not confronted with any mental worries or psychic influences.

With a comfortable home and no cares to occupy her mind, Dr. Sullivan said there was but little danger of the mental disorder.

The condition imposed by Judge Lummus was that Mrs. Keezer should submit to investigation of her mental condition once in every six months to the probation officer and a physician to be named by the court.

230 Sweaters Knit by Wellesley Girl for Refugees

With a record of having made 467 pairs of pajamas by hand for soldiers during the war, Miss Ada L. Daniels of Wellesley is now directing her efforts to knitting sweaters for the Wellesley Chapter of the Red Cross, and has already furnished that organization with 230 sweaters.

Most of the sweaters have been sent to the Near East by the Wellesley Chapter and are probably being worn by refugee children of Greece.

KERMIT ROOSEVELT BOXING PROMOTER

New York, July 12.—Kermit Roosevelt, son of the late ex-President, is now a fight promoter. He is associated with Anthony J. Drexel Biddle and Tex Rickard in the New Madison Square Garden Corporation which promoted the Willard-Firpo bout at Boyle's Thirty Acres.

Kermit Roosevelt

Rickard is the president and general manager of the new organization, which is now negotiating for the purchase of a block in the heart of the Broadway theatrical district on which it is planned to construct a mammoth indoor athletic arena.

Boy Breaks Ankle

Paul Gill, 3 years old, No. 1357 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, broke his left ankle while playing on the veranda at his home. He stepped into a small box and fell. He was taken to the City Hospital.

2 MEN ESCAPE, HORSE SINKS IN QUICKSANDS

Fall River, July 12.—Christopher Oliveira and Joseph Miller, both thirty years old, narrowly escaped death when a horse-drawn grocer's wagon in which they were riding, sank in the quicksands of Cook Pond here. The horse and wagon were lost.

Oliveira, driving the wagon for Max Wittes of Pearl street, attempted to wash the wagon by driving into the pond. The horse began to sink and the two men became alarmed and shouted for help.

Passers-by who knew of the quicksands shouted warnings to the men to swim to safety. Oliveira, however was unable to swim, and grappled with Miller in the water until both sank.

Several persons waded into the pond and helped the two men to reach shore. They were given first aid and removed to a hospital.

GREENFIELD RAID NETS MUCH WHISKEY

Greenfield, July 12.—Federal prohibition agents from Springfield raided No. 13 Ames street, here and confiscated a large amount of whiskey and gin. Thomas Malley, said to be the tenant, was not present when the raid took place. Manager Tobin of the New Devens Hotel was summoned to appear in Springfield Court, although no evidence was found when the dry agents searched his hotel.

SON, AUTO AND HOME LOST BY BLIND MAN

Shrewsbury, July 12.—George K. Shadbegian, a farmer has had more than his share of misfortunes.

To begin with, he is blind. Then he is separated from his wife, who lives in Worcester.

Last week his eighteen-year-old son disappeared from his home taking his father's automobile with him.

And today, his cup of sorrow is filled to overflowing, as he picks his way among the ashes of what was once his dwelling house and farm buildings. The structures, located on Mill street, were completely destroyed by fire, causing damage estimated at $10,000.

The police are investigating the blaze, which is the second to occur in the Lake Shore section of Shrewsbury this week.

WIFE ASKS RIGHT TO MOVE CHILDREN

Concord, N. H., July 13.—Chief Justice Kivel has reserved decision in the divorce case of Edna D. Potter against Howard C. Potter. A delicate point of law was injected by the request for custody of the two small children by the mother and permission to take them to Baltimore, where she plans to live with her parents. Potter is contesting the divorce and objects to the removal of the children from the jurisdiction of the New Hampshire court.

TO ARREST BOYS FOR TRAIN ACCIDENT

Chicopee, July 13.—Warrants were given out by Boston & Maine railroad detectives for seven local boys who are blamed for a peculiar accident resulting from the placing of a piece of seven-eighths steel plate on the track in front of a passenger train. The locomotive wheels apparently passed over the obstruction but those of the tender flipped the steel from the track and it severed the air brake hose, bringing the train to a quick stop.

Boy Hit by Auto

Gardener Parshley, eight years old, of No. 218 L street, South Boston, was struck and knocked down near his home by a touring car owned by Arthur Kelly, of No. 394 K street, South Boston, and operated by Humphrey Keaveny.

PREDICTS WAR IN URGING LEAGUE

Cedar Point, Ohio, July 13.—There will be a Continental European war within the next four years into which the United States may be drawn "unless something is done about it," Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, predicted before the annual convention of the Ohio Electric Light Association here.

Entrance of the United States into the full spirit of the League of Nations, he declared, was the only way open to a possible prevention of such a conflict. President Harding is "eternally right," the former Secretary said, in his proposal for participation in the World Court, but this agency having powers to deal only with international questions of a legal nature "can't be counted upon to end war."

Mr. Baker urged that the country assume full membership in the League with any reservations desired.

U. S. WEALTH RISES 3 BILLION SINCE 1917

Washington, July 13.— Money stocks in the United States have increased $2,284,000,000 in six years, the Treasury announced today. Money of all kinds now in the country amount to $8,603,000,000. In 1917, the aggregate was only $5,212,000,000. There is now in circulation $4,729,000,000. If this sum were divided among the 111,000,000 people of the United States, each one would have $42.51.

SALEM'S GRAND OLD LADY FIGHTS TO SHARE IN SISTER'S ESTATE

MRS. O'SHEA, 82, TO DRIVE AUTO IF SHE WINS

If Mrs. Mary J. O'Shea, of No. 5 Rawlins street, Salem, succeeds with other relatives in breaking the will of her sister and participating in a $750,000 estate, what is she likely to want most?

She will tell you like a shot. She told the Boston American reporter. She is eighty-two years of age, but she wants an automobile—and she wants to drive it herself.

She also wants a better home. She now has a little home all her own in Salem and its coziness just fits her warm motherliness, but all her life she has wanted a bigger one.

She is the mother of William A. O'Shea, Mayor of Peabody.

One of five sisters, four now living, she had been visited in her humble Salem cottage by one of them, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Godeffroy, who owners a magnificent estate of 365 acres in Orange County, New York, at Guymon.

Another sister, Josephine, is the widow of the celebrated Tony Pastor of New York theatrical fame, and wealthy. Still another is Mrs. Emily Plock, who lives in Paris, France, and the fourth is Mrs. Annie Roberts of New York.

On March 26, Elizabeth died. So much did Mrs. O'Shea love that sister that they kept the news of the loss from her for days, her own daughter having just died in Boston.

DISAPPOINTMENT IN WILL.

Then came the reading of the will.

With that came the added blow to the aged woman.

The sister she had loved had signed a will which cut her off with out a cent, out of all her wealth of thousands of dollars in diamonds and other jewels, her show place of an estate above New York and other property aggregating three quarters of a million.

Two other sisters were likewise served and the children of a dead brother.

The latest step in the case came this week with the filing in New York of formal notice of intention to contest the will. Her lawyer is Attorney Joseph B. Saunders of Salem.

The last testament of her sister had left the bulk of the vast estate to a second cousin of her husband, a lad of eighteen years, Johan Cesar Godeffroy-Pasher of Potsdam, Germany, whom close relatives here of the deceased sister have never seen.

ESTATE WORTH MILLION.

While the formal papers cite the estate as "more than $10,000 in personal property and more than $10,000 in real estate," it is asserted that it is worth nearly a cool million, while Mrs. O'Shea told the Boston American reporter today that it was estimated at $750,000 ten years ago. At that time the personal property alone was valued at a quarter of a million.

And now Mrs. O'Shea, Mrs. Josephine Pastor, widow of Tony Pastor, living on exclusive Whitney avenue, in Hamden, L. I.; Mrs. Roberts of New York and the sons of the deceased brother, Daniel Foley of Bridgeport, Ct., are joining hands in attempting to break the will.

Yearns for Auto

MRS. MARY J. O'SHEA

Although she is eighty-two, this wonderful old lady, filled with the spirit of youth, is leading fight to break will of sister, who in disposing of vast estates, failed to make provision for "Grandma" O'Shea.

"BLACK OXEN will be much discussed, the more from the fact that physical aspects of rejuvenation are passed for aesthetic. Whether the jaded mind with the young body is worth while, Mrs. Atherton does not attempt to say, but this story is vigorously written and one of provocative interest."—Philadelphia North American

STARTS IN TEN DAYS

ATTACKED BY RELATIVE IS GIRL'S CHARGE

Taunton, July 13.—Caroline De Pooseca, an unusually pretty girl, dances the "shimmy" and blows kisses to her admirers during the noon lunch hour at the Curr Mill.

Male employees of the mill declare there is nothing like a smile and a kiss from the eighteen-year-old Latin beauty to relieve the tedium and monotony of mill work.

That was brought out in testimony before Judge P. E. Austin in Taunton Court during the suit brought by Manuel Lawrence against his brother-in-law, John A. Medeiros, whom he charges with making slanderous remarks in the mill about the girl, Lawrence's sister-in-law.

ORDERED FROM HOME.

When she came to America, in 1920, Caroline resided with Manuel Lawrence, who is married to her sister, Maria. The pretty dancing girl was ordered from the Lawrence home by her sister when the latter became jealous of her actions with Lawrence, it was testified by Mrs. Lawrence.

Caroline is now living with another sister, the wife of the defendant, Medeiros. All parties are employed at the Curr Mill. There was a sensation just before the case was finished when Miss DeFonseca on the witness stand told the court that while at the Lawrence home her brother-in-law, Manuel Lawrence, attacked her three times. She sobbed that at the time she was a mere child just turned fifteen years of age.

CHARGES DENIED.

Medeiros denied he had ever said Caroline had been intimate with the plaintiff. Judge Austin reserved his decision. Following adjournment of court Miss DeFonseca attempted to strike her sister Maria and her husband, Manuel Lawrence, but was restrained by attorneys and the court officers.

As a result of Miss DeFonseca's story other complaints may reach the court.

BABY DYING AFTER FALLING 4 STORIES

Richard Hill, 2 years old, son of Mrs. Ethel Hill of No. 301 Dudley street, Roxbury, is dying at the City Hospital after taking four stories from the window of his home. While the mother was in a near room the child climed to an open window and leaned over too far. He suffered a fractured skull.

STONE SLAB CRUSHES WORKMAN'S FOOT

Arthur Duccini, thirty-seven years old, of No. 252 Bremen street, East Boston, received a crushed foot when a large slab of marble fell on him while he was working at Ash and Bremen streets, South End, where a new building is under construction. He was taken to the City Hospital by a passing autoist.

FRANK ARCHER says:

My associates in the Moxie bottle department report to me that we are in the greatest need of Three Hundred Thousand (300,000) cases of Moxie Empties in order to keep Moxieland humming, which we must do to take care of the enormous demand for Moxie. As it would require Three Thousand, Seven Hundred and Fifty (3,750) one-ton trucks to haul these bottles, we appreciate that we are asking you for quite some effort. However, you have never failed us, and we are sure you will not now.

The orders for Moxie are so great that we are obliged to apportion our daily output as equitably as possible.

If there is any delay in delivering Moxie we regret it exceedingly, but assure you that we are bending every energy to keep you supplied.

We thank you in advance for your co-operation in returning Moxie Empties.

SECOND FREE OUTING FOR KIDDIES NEXT TUESDAY

Tuesday's the day.

And you better clip your coupons and buy your ticket if you aven't done so. There's going to be a rush, because it's getting otter every day.

Tuesday, that's the musical word he place is Rowe's Wharf, the event is BOSTON AMERICAN'S second excursion of this year to 2,000 moth- rs and children in Boston. The ex- cursion is to Nantasket Beach. Not only do the mothers and kiddies go s guests of Boston's greatest news- aper, but they get a lot of goodies iven to them free of charge. Their oat leaves Rowe's Wharf at 9 o'clock in the morning. The return eaves at 9:30 o'clock.

Go to the one most convenient to our home and present those coup- ons clipped from the Boston Amer- can, different dates with ten cents and you will be given a ticket.

Get them early because thousands are planning to make the trip. Un- der no circumstances go to Rowe's Wharf on Tuesday without your ticket, as no coupons will be ac- deemed at the wharf. The boats will leave at 9 and 9:30 o'clock.

Here are some of the Tuesday treats.

H. P. HOOD & SONS are giving 3,000 bottles of their wonderful health-giving, pasteurized milk and also a big quantity of their famous Old Fashioned Ice Cream.

BERWICK CAKE CO. has con- tributed 2,000 large portions of their celebrated Berwick Pound Cake. The children will remember the "Berwick Kiddies," Berry and Wyckie. Watch for them.

PARAGON PARK FREE.

PARAGON PARK is wide open to- morrow to all holders of Boston American identification tags. Get your tag on the boat after leaving Boston, attach it to your clothing where it can be seen and when you get to Nantasket Beach, march into Paragon Park as if you owned it.

SAGAMORE BATH HOUSES will be prepared to furnish every mother and child free bath houses, but not suits or towels. BRING YOUR OWN SUITS AND TOWELS. The man- ager has a warm place in his heart for kiddies and will personally at- tend to their wants.

MOXIE FAVORS.

ARCHER ON THE JOB as usual, Frank Archer of the Moxie Com- pany never lets a chance slip by to make love to the kiddies. He has instructed his plant to have a Moxie favor down on the dock for every passenger on our boats. And when "Moxie's Daddy" says it, IT IS DONE.

WIFE BATTLES FOR RELEASE OF LAVALLE

MRS. JOSEPHINE LAVALLE AND DAUGHTER

Photos of Mrs. Josephine Lavalle of North Uxbridge (sitting), and her daughter, Alice. Declaring she knows he will mend his ways, Mrs. Lavalle is seeking the release from State Prison of her husband, Alcide Lavelle, who is serving a four-year term for running down and killing an aged cripple while smuggling liquor in his automobile. Lavalle lost two fingers of his right hand while operating a stamping machine in prison and may lose the remaining fingers.

'IN LIVING HELL' FOR 3 DAYS

Back Bay Wife Says Food Uneatable, Immigrants Forced to Sleep Like Cattle

Food so dirty and greasy that the inmates would not dare touch it, much less eat it.

Children screaming like animals in agony day and night.

Beds, like cages, made of wire, without pillows or mattresses. Just an army blanket between the body and the cutting strands.

Dirt and filth everywhere. Men sleeping on the floor. Children and grown-ups huddled four in a bed.

HELD THREE DAYS.

Thus did Mrs. Catherine Torrielli of No. 38 Westland avenue, Back Bay, describe to an American reporter her enforced stay of three days and three nights at the immigration station on Ellis Island, the much-lauded melting pot of America.

"It's a living hell," she declared. As a result of her confinement on the island, Mrs. Torrielli, who arrived on the steamship Conte Verde on June 25, is seriously ill and on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

HAD OVERSTAYED LIMIT.

Mrs. Torrielli has lived in the United States for nineteen years. Last year she and her husband visited Italy to see relatives. Taken sick at Genoa, she turned back to her home in the United States, upon the advice of her physician. Her husband remained in Italy.

Mrs. Torrielli overstayed the time limit of her six-months' visit by three months, but in Italy was told that her medical certificate of illness would admit her. Ellis Island officials, however, refused to admit her on registration. She said that the automobile was owned by Mrs. Alice Hakar of the South End, who was sitting in the automobile beside her.

When Mrs. Hakar was asked to show a license and prove her ownership of the car she failed to do so, the police say.

Mrs. Dyab was held at the station while Mrs. Hakar went in search of money to bail her friend out. The car was seized by the police.

The roadster, which was owned by Florence F. Rice of No. 140 Thorndike street, Boston, was badly damaged.

RAIDER GIVES SECRET SIGNAL BY CHANCE

Members of the Boston police liquor squad stumbled on a liquor cache in the rear-beer saloon of Joseph Peracchi at No. 75 Cambridge street, West End, while searching the establishment for liquor.

Tapping repeatedly along the wall in the rear of the saloon in search of possible secret compartments containing liquor, one of the officers unwittingly gave a private signal. Thereupon a hand holding two pints of whiskey appeared through an opening in the wall as a small secret door slid back.

To an insistent knock of the policeman a voice coming from a rear room had answered, "All right. I'll be out in a minute."

The owner of the mysterious hand then came out. The policeman grasped the liquor and also the hand. In the struggle the man cracked himself to the rear room.

In the room the police found two and one-half more quarts of whiskey. A warrant for the arrest of the owner of the establishment will be sought.

20,000 AUTO DRIVERS UNLICENSED

Registrar Goodwin Says Many Have Never Appeared for Tests

Frank A. Goodwin, the State Registrar of Motor Vehicles, estimated today there are 20,000 persons in this State driving autos without a license.

Some of them have never presented themselves for the examinations and road test, he said.

Others appeared for their examinations, failed to pass the test and then started driving without the license.

Others, he said, constitute the "lawless element," who have been convicted of driving while drunk or of driving recklessly and endangering lives and property. Their licenses were taken away from them by law, but they kept on driving.

APPEALS TO POLICE.

Eighteen persons were killed in the first eight days of this month alone, he said, and conditions are worse than at any time in the past five years.

Goodwin said it seems absolutely useless to appeal to the courts to protect the public because the judges refuse to be consistent in their penalties. Accordingly, he has sent a letter to all the chiefs of police, asking their co-operation. In the letter he says:

"It is useless to arrest these violators and put them in court, because an examination of the returns from the various courts of this Commonwealth shows that at least half the cases are placed on file while in most of the other cases a five dollar fine is imposed. The lawless element in the community knows this with the result that they are operating cars without fear of punishment.

PROPOSES REMEDY.

"There is one remedy left, and I sincerely hope you will assist this department in invoking it. In every case where you think an operator is not licensed, hold him up and if you find he is without a license, and not accompanied by a licensed person, take the number of the automobile and send it to me and I shall revoke the registration and plates immediately.

"If you hold a person up and he says he has a license at home but not with him, take the number of the car and make the operator sign his name on a piece of paper and agree to bring his license to you within a reasonable time. If he does not come, send the number of the car to me and I shall take the registration away."

BRIDE GOES MAD ON HER HONEYMOON

Joseph Rudnick Plans to Ask Annulment of Marriage to Mollie Barron

By BERT FORD

Joseph Rudnick, wealthy Boston real estate broker, questions the legality of his marriage to Mollie Barron, a patient at McLean asylum, who, he declares, went insane while they were on their honeymoon at Coronado Beach, California.

This was revealed at a hearing before Judge Prest in Suffolk Probate Court when Rudnick's counsel, Attorney Samuel L. Ballen, repeatedly alluded to the union as "a form of marriage." He was arguing a motion to have the court vacate or reduce an attachment of $100,000 made on Rudnick's property by Joseph Barron, brother of the invalid bride.

MAY RECOVER.

Attorney Ballen told Judge Prest his client planned to petition for annulment of the marriage, but that he and his client had decided to wait a reasonable period to see whether Mrs. Rudnick's malady was temporary or permanent. An alienist testified that there was hope for her recovery, with good care.

The annulment plea will be based on the allegation that Mollie Barron was not of sound mind when the ceremony was performed and that her husband was kept ignorant of her condition. This claim will be bitterly fought by the relatives of the incarcerated bride, who is Rudnick's second wife and young enough to be his daughter.

COUNTER CLAIM.

The bride's family make the counter claim that her condition developed for the first time during the honeymoon.

Attorney William Hirsh, personal counsel for Mrs. Rudnick, told Judge Pread that Rudnick "agreed to pay his wife's bills as long as she remained insane."

The hearing was preliminary to a major hearing on Joseph Barron's petition for separate support. The brother has also petitioned to be made guardian of his sister. He is a member of the firm of Barron & Anderson, clothing manufacturers, No. 93 Albany street.

TO CHARGE WIFE WITH MURDER

She Had Declared Rich Husband Was Shot by Burglars

Los Angeles, July 13.—A definite charge is expected to be placed against Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, taken into custody on suspicion of murdering her husband, Fred Oesterreich, wealthy apron manufacturer of Milwaukee and Los Angeles, at their home here about a year ago.

At the time of the slaying, Mrs. Oesterreich said she had been locked in a closet upstairs while her husband was shot to death downstairs, and the police advance the theory that burglars had committed the crime.

Captain of Detectives George Home arrested Mrs. Oesterreich after she said he had been informed she had disposed of two automatic pistols of the same calibres as that with which her husband was killed.

In Oesterreich's will he bequeathed his estate, valued at $242,100 to his wife.

HEALEY SCORES STREET BOARD ON PROVINCE ST.

In an open letter to the public, City Councillor William C. S. Healey gave his reasons for voting against the $500,000 loan for the proposed widening of Province street, and reiterated his charges that the entire matter relating to the widening had been "loosely" handled.

He scored the street commissioners for neglecting to make it clear whether the assessed values of the land to be taken for the widening would be made according to the 1922 valuations or the 1923 valuations. If the valuations of 1923 were to be used as a basis, the prices paid for the land would be much higher than had at first been intended, he declared.

He referred to the holdings of George U. Crocker, trustee, at Nos. 2-6 Province street, and that of the Massachusetts General Hospital opposite, as evidence of the possibility of the claimants to secure an "outrageous" valuation for their holdings.

AUTO CARRYING 15 CHILDREN IN CRASH

A touring car containing two women and fifteen children, while driving at a high rate of speed along the Strandway, near the Headhouse, South Boston, swerved and crashed into a roadster parked at the side of the road. Four of the children were thrown to the ground, receiving minor injuries about the face and head.

The touring car was operated by Mrs. Mary Dyab of No. 92 Hudson street, South End, who, when arrested, was unable to show a license or registration. She said that the automobile was owned by Mrs. Alice Hakar of the South End, who was sitting in the automobile beside her.

When Mrs. Hakar was asked to show a license and prove her ownership of the car she failed to do so, the police say.

DROUGHT KEEPS TWO MILLS IDLE

Manchester, N. H., July 13.—Low water in the Merrimack River makes it impossible to open two of the Amoskeag mills on Monday, when the company plans to start up the plant. Until further notice, mills Nos. 5 and 3 will remain closed until the dry situation is ameliorated.

The continued close-down of those two mills will affect 1,000 operatives.

AUTO TRUCK SPEEDS OFF AFTER CRASH

A five-ton auto truck going at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour south on Summer street struck a truck driven by Frank Davis, an employe of Estabrook & Sibley, No. 543 Atlantic avenue, badly cutting both hind legs of one of the horses. The auto truck sped off after the crash without stopping.

HORSE MUST APPEAR BEFORE COURT

Chief Edward Leavitt of Lexington was to emulate Paul Revere today by riding a bay mare over the 5 miles of state highway between Lexington and Concord court.

Chief Leavitt, it was understood would ride the horse bareback and the blue-coated police chief, with gold badge, stripes and buttons, was expected to attract more attention along the route than the original Paul Revere.

But the ride is a mere incident to the tangle over the ownership of a horse which Allen A. McKinnon declares was stolen from the Winning Farm, where he lives. The farm is located partly in Lexington, partly in Woburn and partly in Winchester. The larceny occurred in Woburn and McKinnon went to the Woburn District Court and obtained a warrant for the arrest of a hired man he suspected.

In the meantime he discovered a horse on the farm of Frank Lopes, on Ridge road, in Lexington, he believed was his. Lopes would not give up the horse, claiming he had bought it.

Later Chief Leavitt, armed with a warrant located the horse hauling a load of hay from a nearby field. The police waited until the horse was on Lopes' land, and then seized it.

Lopes was formally placed under arrest, and he together with the horse, police, and a number of witnesses were summoned into Concord court this morning.

ALLEGED THIEF TO STAY IN HOSPITAL

Edward L. Arnold, twenty-seven, of No. 251 West Genesses street, Auburn, N. Y., was in East Cambridge district court, charged with stealing an automobile from Fred E. Allen, Jr., at Cambridge, February 7.

A continuance for three months was granted by Judge Wolcott, when Officer Charles Mallahan urged the court to allow Arnold to complete hospital treatments, which, if unfinished, might leave him maimed for life.

GEMS STOLEN FROM AUTO IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, July 13.—Henry N. Dickinson, No. 195 Kingston avenue, Brooklyn, who, with his family is touring New England, was robbed of a suitcase containing jewelry and wearing apparel when he parked his auto in Eddy street. A diamond ring and diamond pin, valued at $150, and clothing worth $300, were stolen.

TWO ACCUSED COPS PUNISHED

Patrolman Joseph A. Grimes of the City Point Station, who was charged with being absent without leave, was found guilty by a trial board, consisting of Captains Grant, Hickey and Skillings, and was given 105 hours' punishment duty. Patrolman Ralph I. Bailey of the Athens Street Station, who was charged with entering a building without permission and neglect of duty, was also found guilty by the same board and given 210 hours' punishment duty.

James Punch, sixteen years old, of No. 11 Venis road, Dorchester, was injured by an automobile while crossing Albany street near the city stables, South End. The driver of the car, Lawrence Eager, took the injured boy to the City Hospital, where he was found suffering from a fractured leg and multiple cuts and bruises.

URGES MERGER OF SMALL CHURCHES

Amherst, July 13.—The Rev. E. Tallmadge Root, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, speaking here before a conference of country ministers in the Massachusetts Agricultural College auditorium said, there are 600 churches in towns of this State of less than 2,500 inhabitants which cannot give a minister a living salary unless these churches combine.

Rev. E. T. Root

He made a strong plea for leadership in churches through the ministers in the smaller communities.

France's Principal Food

THE principal food of the French people is bread. In an exceptional year France raises nearly enough wheat to supply its needs, but after a mediocre harvest, like that of 1922, it has to import large quantities from abroad.

THE WAYS OF A HUSBAND—By ANN LISLE

A Splendid Sequel to the Famous Story of Wedded Life, "When a Girl Marries"

HOW THE STORY STARTS

Jim and Anne find happiness again on a honeymoon spent in the apartment of Betty Winston, loaned for the occasion. They go to Dreamwold for a Sunday dinner with Jeanie and are met in the grounds by Rosa, who ignores Anne. Rosa advises the discharge of Mabel Storrs to save the big salary. This Anne resents. Evvy helps Anne arrange her apartments and a dinner is given as a housewarming. Phoebe grows hysterical on receipt of Carlotta's wedding invitation. Betty speaks to Anne about Ralph's fondness for the latter.

By Ann Lisle

THE nurse took the baby, and Phoebe said to tell her about the opium. She said she was afraid to leave all the money here. I was saving how safely we could hide it. Then I went out to get cream for her to drink. I came back and gave it to her and patted my self-fed. And she said her nails looked blue. I said it was the light. She didn't answer. I got up to go to her. She didn't answer when I spoke. Nor when I touch her. I carried her back to bed. Some called the doctor. That's all—I think."

"That's all!" shrieked Virginia. "You mean to say that's all you can tell me about my sister's last hours?"

Neal looked at me with a queer expression in his eyes. They seemed to be flat and vacant.

"She was my wife," he said.

It seemed an explanation—not a protest.

Jeanie got to her feet and began rocking to and down the room, moaning and crying. After a minute Neal went to her and put his arm about her. Halting, as if to find a way to fill in mere details, he told his tragedy again. All the while Jim sat silent, saying nothing. Suddenly her went to Virginia and drew her down on a couch by his side. He bent me a smile that was all gentleness.

"Anne," Jim murmured. "Poor Neal. He needs you."

I went to my young brother and drew him close to my heart. He seemed a little lad again and needed me sorely. But the boy Neal was gone. The man who had come to take his place clung to me for a moment and then pushed me away.

"I'm better—alone," he said.

"I won't have you, dear," I began.

"I won't leave Phoebe!" shrieked Virginia, her reserve and control crumbling and leaving her sobbing hysterically in Jim's arms.

Pat's voice sounded from the doorway, as he came from the inner room.

"Jim, won't it be best for you to be taking the girls home now?" he asked quietly. "It'll be after staying with the lad this night. There's things we might better be discussing."

Jim Urged Her

"You're right, old man—and you're a trump," agreed Jim, with a hint of impending break in his voice.

"I won't go, sobbed Virginia. I won't—"

But Jim was urging her toward the inner room.

"Shall we say good night to—Phoebe?" he asked gently.

Virginia let him lead her a step or two. Then she ran back and caught Neal's hands in both of hers.

"Come too, dear," she begged. "Come with Jim and me. We're your brother and sister now. You'll feel it when you stand close to us—in there."

The tenderness of her voice moved Neal. His face twitched. He took Virginia's hand and moved after her, with something almost majestic in his quiet grief. The minute they were gone I slipped over to Pat and murmured:

"What do you mean when you said there were things for you to discuss with Neal? Don't let his control deceive you, Pat. He's suffering terribly. This quiet isn't like Neal. It's worse than moaning and crying would be. It means agony."

"I know Alanna," replied Pat gently. "'Tis because of that I'm planning too take his mind off his cares for keeping."

"But he ought to sleep, even if it takes a sedative," I protested.

"He could never be sleeping even with the drugs," insisted Pat. "And in the morning 'tis a clear head he'll be needing."

"You're never going to send him out in—take up that option?" I gasped.

"And why not? Life goes on. The sooner he learns to take up his life the better 'twill be. 'Tis work will save him."

"Pat, then you do see how—near mad he is. He's dazed. He can't listen to you right. He can't think tomorrow. He isn't fit to handle a sixty-thousand dollar deal. He can't think. You will you—I wouldn't trust him with anything like that."

Needs Responsibility

"Nonsense, Alanna, to you were on who read us after your own hearts—and wrongly." Pat retorted impatiently. "Neal rose to take up his option tomorrow. 'Twill save him. He needs the responsibility."

"He isn't fit for it! Don't trust"

"You'll be seeing whose is the better judgment," smiled Pat. "'Tis time Jim was after taking you home. You're fair for naught. The night has worn you out."

ABOUT YOUR BEAUTY

—By Maria Jeritza—

Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.

MADAME DE STAEL, it is said, used to play with rose leaves while she chatted with her friends. She had beautiful hands, and wished to call attention to them.

At first thought this little artifice may seem the pinnacle of vanity. But is it really so? Are we not justified in making the most of our good points, even in calling attention to them when we can do it skilfully and within the bounds of good taste?

No doubt Madame de Stael cultivated the mannerism of toying with rose leaves until it became part of her individuality. And doubtless it gave distinct pleasure to her friends and acquaintances to watch her really very beautiful hands.

Why not make your hands notably beautiful? Hands respond so quickly to faithful care. And they are so expressive.

Have your hands a parchment-like, aged look?

They probably need better circulation and more nourishment.

Electrical treatments given by an expert will help remedy the defective circulation.

But perhaps electrical treatments are impractical for you.

In this case you will find that massage every morning and evening, with same vertical movements you use in drawing on a pair of gloves, will in time bring a hue of lovely health to your hands. Repeat this massage from time to time during the day.

And at night, at the same time you manage them, rub into your hands this nourishing skin food, which should smooth out the deep furrows and bring about youthful, firm plumpness:

Spermaceti	6 ounces
White wax	2 ounces
Oil of almonds	16 ounces
Glycerine	4 ounces
Rose water	4 ounces
Borax	1 ounce
Oil of roses	30 minims
Extract of jasmine	1 ounce

Of course these measures alone will not transform your hands unless you follow the rules of health and simple living.

Do not worry. Sleep eight or nine hours each night. Eat plenty of nourishing food. Exercise in the fresh air and breathe it at all times.

THE HE MAN

SHE FLEW WITH HIM TO THE JUNGLE

By George Agnew Chamberlain

HE chartered two sailing boats he from a Greek fisherman and in an hour the beach had broadened, the cliff had risen to almost imposing heights; while they were still well off the shore they shot into its shadow. The boatman chose a landing at the foot of the Cliff Road, a quarter of a mile away from the steep path by which Andrea had made her descent. As the safari began to form on the beach Trevor turned to Andrea. "We're going to your old hotel, you know. It's really the only one. If you prefer, I can send for a motor-car for you and myself; but we'd have to wait half an hour."

Caught Her Breath

Andrea caught her breath as she realized that it was only minutes before she would be in collision with a world. Her eyes ran down the line of their marching column already on the edge of an incongruous setting, but still impressing with that subtle dignity which the free and half-naked black takes with him everywhere and which is born of his absolute indifference to standards not his own.

"Let us go in at the head of our men," she answered.

"You are right," said Trevor, pleased at her shrewd judgment. "We mortals," he added, "don't always recognize the importance of fighting an atmosphere with an atmosphere. To go in as cook of our own walk is a thousand times better than a motor-car and the back door."

Andrea nodded. "I felt it but I couldn't put it in words like that."

The cortege that approached the entrance to the Indian Ocean Hotel at an hour when men, having ceased from labor, are sipping cocktails and smoking one more cigarette before going up to dress and when knitting women are trying to purl out before daylight goes, was almost biblical in its imposing simplicity. First came Trevor, browned by many suns and virile, his khaki clothes molded by usage to the long rippling muscles of his body; just behind him followed Marguerite carrying philosophically as precious a burden of blushing youth and loveliness as ever God packed into one skin. Then came gunbearers, water-carriers, askaris and a personal servants, including Bathtub at the head of the picked carriers who bore everything necessary to the setting of camp.

After that followed a break occupied only by the cook, a solemn personage who marched ever alone dressed in one of Trevor's cast-off suits of mufti and carrying, slung on a stick over his shoulder, a pair of shoes which had accompanied the gift of raiment but into which his feet had never been able to force a way. Behind him followed a long string of porters, herded by three vociferous captains armed each with a pointed stick which they talked about often but never used and carrying the endless assortment of loads that speak with an indescribable eloquence for the self-sufficiency of a well-appointed safari.

These loads were in themselves a story; battered tin cases, a trunk, and many packs; chuck boxes, scarred by the burns and bruises of many a campfire and many a journey; trophies in the sum of eight elephant tusks and three noble heads, one of koodoo, one of sable and one—the staggering weight of a great bull-buffalo's skull, mask and horns—hung on a pole between two men.

Followed the rag-tag of lighter and miscellaneous burdens: such as the precious camp acetylene lamps, carried each by a boy, the filter, a bucket full of dishes, a cluster of common lanterns, a demijohn of drinking water. Bringing up the tailing rear were the camp-followers, a few youngsters and half a dozen favored wives, too comely to be trusted at home. These carried for their fathers and lords, tit-bits of meat in varying stages of putrefaction, also much mandioc and such other vegetables as they had been able to beg or steal along the line of march.

Between Gate Posts

As Trevor, the white head of this quarter-mile-long and glistening black serpent of humanity, swung in between the gateposts of the hotel's imposing portals, the ever-opportune Marguerite stretched his neck, raised his barrel-head and brayed. Above that raucous cry sounded the spontaneous and uncontrollable peal of Andrea's silver laughter.

The groups of men and women—all but one—on the hotel verandа stopped in their various occupations as though paralyzed: drinks paused half-way to thirsty lips, cigarettes burned ignominious fingers, knitting needles poised instantaneously—all but one pair. The manipulator of the exception was a dear but very proper old lady wearing a cap of an atmosphere. To go in as cook filmy lace on her plentiful white hair and enough more lace on her person to make the porch chair in which she sat look like a stall at a Red Cross bazaar.

FLAMING YOUTH

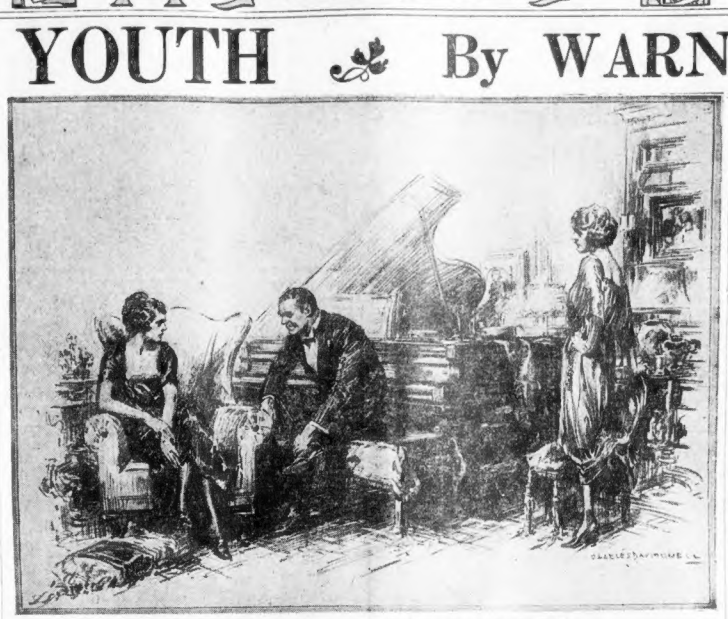
By WARNER FABIAN

The Great Reform Novel of the Year, Baring Innermost Secrets of Luxury-Loving Class

START THIS BIG, NEW STORY TODAY

Mona Fentriss, young, beautiful and the wife of a consulting engineer, has been told by her physician, Bob Osterhout, who is in love with her, that she has only a short time to live. Mona gives a gay party, telling Pat to go to bed, but the latter borrows a sister's dress, sleals downstairs and has "a taste of life." Connie goes to a dance at the club and takes too much punch. She is brought home by Fred Browning, with whom she had uneventfully spent the night. Sed Thorpe gives Pat a "real" kiss. Mona dies and Constance receives a call from Cary Scott, her mother's first admirer. Scott is much taken with Pat. A party is planned for the Dangerfields to christen the new swimming pool. A thunder storm puts out the lights and the guests go into the water without clothes. Dee modestly hesitates on the balcony and then—the lights come on, revealing her in a blinding glare. One of the bathers is saved from drowning by Cary Scott. Pat and Cary Scott become interested in each other. Pat returns from school and declares she is "out for trouble" this time. Scott and Pat confess their love and Scott, whose wife is living, says good-by to her. Pat pretends to Dr. Osterhout that she is about to have a baby. He asks her to marry him. Then she admits she has tricked him and that it is Dee who wants his aid. Cary Scott comes back and Pat succumbs to him.

NOW GO ON WITH THIS ENTHRALLING STORY.



"I don't want to marry my grandfather," Pat had told Bobs

NOTHING irked Pat more than being awakened too early. Consequently Katie's knock upon her door, at the third discreet repetition, elicited a plaintive growl of protest.

"Oh, go away!"

"Special delivery letter for you, Miss Pat."

"Shove it under the door and don't bother me." She thumped over in the bed, burrowing her face among the pillows like an annoyed bobo.

Very much did Pat wish to sleep. Until long after midnight she had lain awake, thinking excitedly. To be roused out of the profound oblivion which she had finally achieved, thus unkindly, was little too much. But that letter got between her and her rest. From Cary Scott, of course. She visualized the oblong blue stamp, insistent, intrusive, "immediate." Oh, well! Up she jumped, caught the envelope from the floor, and dived back into bed to read it.

It was mainly repetition of what he had said last night when they parted; nothing but the absolute necessity of going would have taken him away from her at such a time; he would be back in a few days at the latest; she must wait until then; must not let herself worry; must not make herself unhappy; must trust in him. It ended, "I love you, Pat." Through the quiet directness of the wording Pat felt the stress of an overwhelming emotion. It was not so much worry or unhappiness that filled Pat's thoughts as a confused and colorful bewilderment, a sense of unreality. There intervened a reflection from her misadventure through the media of flash fiction and the conventional false moralizings of the screen. In a variety of presentations they all taught the same lesson, that when girls "went wrong" they invariably "got into trouble." She passed her hands down along her slender, lavish body and experienced a sharp qualm of fear and disgust and anger, a visualization of gross and sudden changes in those slim contours. It couldn't happen to her. In spite of the movies, other girls "took a chance" and "got away with it." Ada Clare, for instance, according to common gossip nothing had happened to her. Claude Parmenter had lightly hinted at "experiences." Pat thought it would be exciting to tell Cissie. But would it be safe? She would like to have Cissie's reassurance that everything would be all right. But why should she need reassurance? She steadied herself with the thought, entertained wholly without idea of blasphemy or irreverence, that God wouldn't let anything like that come about, because he knew he sin irrefutable logic! What did she feel? She asked herself. A sense of the fullness of life, of adventure boldly dared. She had met one of the great crises of a woman's life, the crisis, indeed. It must be so, since all the stories and movies and plays agreed on the point. The singular aspect of it was that she was conscious of no inner change. She was the same Pat Fentriss, only a day older than yesterday. Being a "woman," if this was it, was not so different from being a "girl."

And Mr. Scott. According to the conventions, as she had absorbed them through the sensationalized and distorted long to which her intellectual vision had become habituated, the lover should lose all "respect" for the unfortunate girl this being the first symptom of the waning of his love. Well, it wasn't working that way with her lover. The few, broken words of parting last night, the still passion of his letter, told a different story. Possibly, reflected Pat, the people who set forth what purported to be life, on screen, stage, and the printed page, didn't know so much about it after all. Or possibly she and Cary Scott were different from other people. She felt convinced that she was.

From this she fell to speculating upon Scott's probable attitude toward the ingenious and comforting theory of conduct and responsibility which she had formulated specially to fit the present crisis. Somehow it did not seem quite satisfactory in the illumination of his imagined view. She had thought of him always and rather mournfully as a marvellingus if not actually irreligious man; but it was disturbingly cast up from the depths of her mind that if Cary Scott had a God he would never try either to make cheap excuses to nor shift responsibility upon Him. And suddenly in that light her exculpatory arguments seemed shallow and pattering. This uncomfortable consideration she thrust determinedly into the background, and concentrated her thoughts upon her next meeting with Scott.

All things considered, she was led, on the whole, sorry that he had gone away, assuming, of course that he came back very soon. It gave her time to think, to figure things out free from the immediate glamour of his presence and the disturbing gladness of his return after the long dissevérance. Did she really love him? She supposed she must; otherwise—Yet there was still strong within her the impulse toward the compensations of youth which had intrigued her pleasant remembrance to Dr. Bobs over his opinion as to the desirable age for her husband. I don't want to marry my grandfather! Would she marry Cary Scott if he were free? Even now she doubted it. Not at once anyway. She wanted her own freedom for a time yet, freedom to go my life, to range, to pick and choose. But she had made her choice. Tradition would hold that she had taken an irrevocable step, committed herself. Tradition be damned! She didn't believe it. Would Cary take that view? If, on his return, he should manifest the proprietary attitude, mirror a sense of possessiveness— Pat absorbed her fists but at once sickened with the recollection of his sure comprehension, his unerring tact, his instinctive sense of her deeper emotions and reactions.

Not Free to Marry

So far as the immediate future went, he was not free to marry her, nor likely to be. That problem need not be faced now. Suppose later she fell in love and wanted to marry someone else; what would he her course then? Oh, well! Let that take care of itself when it came. Meantime she had something more immediate to look forward to in Cary's return. She anticipated it with a mingling of trepidation, eagerness, languor and excited intensity, the latter element being predominant.

On the following morning she had another letter, and still a third the day after. She quite ignored in her devotion. But she did not answer the letters. She rather wanted to but found a difficulty in beginning. She preferred to plan out what she should say to him when they met again, and was in the act of building up a quite thrilling and eloquent statement of her feelings when the phone summoned her.

"Pat?" It was Dee's voice, queer and strained. "Can you come over at once?"

"Yes. What's happened?"

"Jim has been hurt."

"Jim? How?"

"Hit by a car."

"Oh, Dee! Is it bad?"

"Yes. I think so. They're bringing him home."

"I'll be right over."

Pat made a dash for her own about. When she reached the James house there were two cars in the driveway, in front of which clustered her Dee

Only Finds it Doesn't Pay to Be Nice — By McNamara

LOOK SKINNY,- THE BARBER COMBED ALL THE WRINKLES OUT OF MY HAIR FOR ME!
GEE I FEEL ROTTEN!
WANNA SMELL MY HAIR?- THE BARBER PUT FANCY WATER ON IT!
WONDER WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH ME?
GEE WHIZZ, THE SMELL WILL ALL BE GONE PRETTY SOON!
I FEEL LIKE I WAS GOIN' TO SCHOOL ON SATERDAY!
DARN IT, THAT'S WHAT I GET FOR TALKIN' TO COMMON PEOPLE!

CRACKLINGS

You never find a member of a bankrupt firm in the poorhouse.

The girls should be careful on holidays not to drop their hand grenades.

They're liable to lose their bathing suits.

Americans easy marks for crooks, says a London dispatch. Perhaps so in Just Here.

If you want to get anywhere these days you have to start in the cellar.

It takes more than two to make a successful bargain sale.

The village blacksmith is still busy shoeing mares to drag out broken-down racing motorists.

Many a near burns his father out of the house.

A Greek husband doesn't mind beating the daylights out of a Turkish rug.

WE WONDER

If a demountable rim might not keep a straw hat from rolling.

If a movie actor ever forgets to kiss his wife in the morning.

If a traffic judge gives the owner of a flivver a fine or a bonus.

If the iceman ever lets his wife wear a kimono.

Why the bootlegging union doesn't strike for a twenty-four hour day.

If the twelve most beautiful women in the world wouldn't make a grand jury.

If the upper story prices for porterhouse steaks can't be attributed to the building shortage.

BELIEVE IT?

On February 28, 1923, a Chicago public accountant locked his children in the bathroom so his wife could run down to the office and help him straighten out the books.

On April 21 1923, a Boston bricklayer quit a job paying him $15 a day because he couldn't stand the tooting of the factory whistles.

On June 31, 1922, the organist in a Baltimore church asked the minister to please use a megaphone when announcing the hymns.

On November 31, 1921, a Detroit debutante who was running a society ball asked an organ-grinder to provide the music for the dance because the guests were tired of waiting for the orchestra to appear.

An ancient car chugged painfully up to the gate at the Indianapolis speedway. The gatekeeper demanded the usual fee for automobiles, calling out: "A dollar for the automobile." The owner looked up with a pathetic sigh of relief and said: "Gosh!"

By John F. Magner, No. 3 Larch st., Pawtucket, R. I.

The above three jokes are awarded a dollar each for daily prizes.

In addition, each week, the Boston American selects fifteen of these jokes, epigrams, jeffins and yaps and they are reproduced in a special picture and shown in various theatres of Greater Boston. A total of $25 in prizes is awarded the authors of the jokes used on the screen, beginning with a first prize of $5 and tapering down to twelve dollar prizes.

The jokes used in the film are not being printed in this issue.

The film is being booked by the following theatres:

Have a Smile With Us

By Nat N. Dorfman

REFORMERS are working for a national divorce law, but it's lamentable fact it's not a law to divorce the United States from its reformers.

In reply to the publishers who desire to sell each and every one of us in the country a book on etiquette, we might say, "Yes, we have no bad manners."

Even if Ford runs for President and is defeated, a lot of fellows who bought second-hand flivvers will say at least he got a run for his money, which is more than they got.

Hysterical Note.

A lot of people express sorrow for King Solomon's plight with his 700 wives, but can you imagine what would happen to him had he lived today and each one of them wanted her own charge account?

All the Summer hotels advertise that fishing abounds at their respective resorts, but unless the girls hook husbands up there the hotel proprietor is a liar.

A great many towns never amounted to much until they began enforcing the speed laws, and now look at the banks they have to hold the money of the passing automobilists.

A lot of old-fashioned poets have gone in for bricklaying and plumbing, which makes everybody happy all around.

FOR BRAINY PEOPLE.

Q.—I am a young girl. What must I have to get into the chorus of a musical show on Broadway?

A.—A pair of silk stockings.

Q.—I am a lawyer and my brother is a doctor. We find things pretty hard. How can we make money quickly?

A.—Join the bricklayers' union or become a plasterer.

Willard's share $150,000
Results of preliminaries
Floyd Johnson knocked out Jack McAuliffe, one round
Jim Roper beat Al Wright eight rounds
Cliff Kramer beat Tiny Herman, eight rounds
Charley Nushurt beat Geo West, six rounds

Jack Conway Gave Fans the Fight Winner

Jack Conway, the Boston American boxing editor, picked Luis Firpo to defeat Jess Willard in a battle of the giants at Boyle's acres.

He also said that the Wild Bull of the Pampas would register victory by a knockout at the hands of Willard's victory over Floyd Johnson at the Mark Fleischer show.

Jack told readers of the Boston American that although Willard won he had failed to prove that he had come back, and that he would be an easy target for Firpo, Wills or Dempsey.

Jack Conway holds the world's record for picking winners. His mark for this year is 84 winners out of a possible 93.

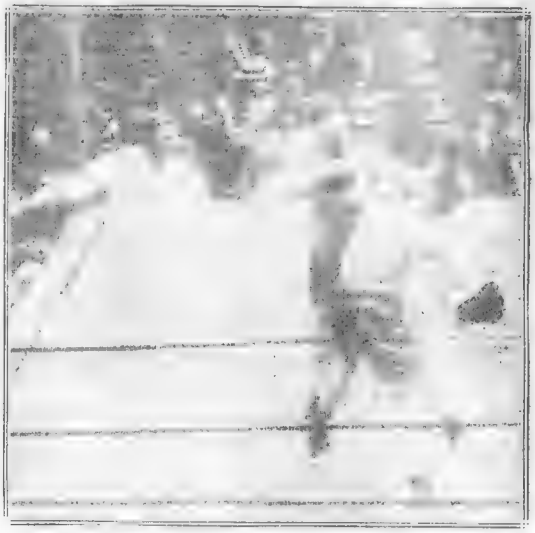
Thrilling Story of Willard's Defeat by Firpo as Shown by Camera

JUST BEFORE THE END—Willard, his strength gone from a terrific beating, takes the seventh, came up in the eighth with a right to the head started him on his way to the canvas.

WILLARD'S MIGHTY LEFT—In the fifth round the former champion fought as he did when he whipped Jack Johnson. He forced the "Wild Bull of the Pampas" into his own corner and smeared him with straight lefts.



WILLARD'S BEST BET—A left hook did the most damage to Firpo, especially in the fourth and sixth rounds. Jess' noted uppercut last night was conspicuous by its absence.

A WILD MIX—In the sixth Jess missed with a left and they clinched. Then Jess rushed Firpo to the ropes and they locked again. The pace at this stage was rapidly slowing down.

WAITING—As the men came out of their corner for the opening round both men were cautious. Firpo was the first to lead, a right, but Jess blocked it.

AT CLOSE QUARTERS—In the fourth round Firpo drove his right to the body and left to the head, then stung Willard with a right to the jaw. In a clinch (shown in picture) Firpo clubbed his right to the head, followed by rights and lefts to the face, which blinded Willard. It was Firpo's round.

MR. GALLAGHER AND MR. SHEAN

EVERYBODY'S Gallagher & Sheaning these days. It's a disease—like the recent banana plague.

Out of the score or more of lyrics submitted today, the following is selected. It is by F. J. Estabrook, No. 31 Russell street, Medford, Mass.

Oh, Mr. Gallagher, Oh, Mr. Gallagher!
What's the reason Europe's torn with strife and woe?
It is years after the war,
Can you tell me, I implore?
How far this bloody fling is due to go?

Oh, Mr. Shean, Oh, Mr. Shean!
The answer is quite plainly to be seen.

It's the fault of La Belle France,
With her troubled Ruhr finance,
Due to hotheads, Mr. Gallagher?
Due to cold feet, Mr. Shean!

Have a try at it, or get that jingle off your chest. That is out of your pet obsession. Write a Gallagher & Shean editorial.

We will give an original Gallagher & Shean stein to the best G. & S. lyric each week.

Address your efforts to Gallagher & Shean, care of the Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

YES, WE'RE GOING TO EUROPE! IT WOULD BE A REAL NEIGHBORLY ACT, MR. HOKUS, IF YOU'D OFFER TO SORT OF KEEP AN EYE ON THE PLACE WHILE WE'RE AWAY!
TICKLED SILLY, MISTER WAFFLE! ANY LITTLE THING I CAN DO! JUST LET ME KNOW!
WELL, THERE ISN'T MUCH TO DO!! MAYBE GO OVER THE LAWN ONCE OR TWICE A WEEK—THEN THERE'S THE CHICKENS, THEY HAVE TO BE FED AND WATERED! WE CAN'T TAKE THE CAR, SO I'LL KINDER LOOK TO YOU TO KEEP WATER IN THE BATTERY AND GIVE HER A DUST ONCE IN AWHILE—
AND SOMETIME WHEN YOU THINK OF IT, THERE'S A FEW NAILS TO BE PUT IN THAT BACK FENCE! I AIN'T HAD THE TIME TO FIX IT MYSELF! I ORDERED TEN TONS OF COAL, WHEN IT COMES WILL YOU SHOVEL OVER WHAT I GOT IN THE CELLAR SO AS TO MAKE ROOM FOR IT? OUTSIDE OF THAT EVERYTHING IS ALL RIGHT I GUESS!

THIS WILD MAN CANNOT TALK AND WHOEVER OWNS THAT BABY ON HIS LAP, IS TAKING CHANCES OF LOSING IT. HE EATS BABIES.
I GUESS I BETTER GET BABY.
I THINK SO.
RUN, LOVEY! RUN! HE'S COMING AFTER YOU!
OH ME! OH MY! I'LL NEVER DO A THING LIKE THAT AGAIN!
GREAT HEAVENS! I FEEL HIS SAVAGE CLAW.
OH SHAME! PA CHILD! SURELY YOU CANNOT BE AS WILD AS THAT MUSEUM MAN SAID—
THAT KID'S OUT OF WATCH AND I WANT IT.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

POETS are becoming so fashionable lately that a lot of wealthy women are hiring nurse girls for their dogs.

IT'S nothing nowadays to see a maid in uniform walking down the street, wheeling a Pekinese in a baby buggy.

A woman doesn't want her little doggie to walk because he'll be too tired to take her meeting when he comes from the office.

ONE dame made such a baby out of her dog that she even gave him his meat out of a bottle.

SHE even licked a cadet to chew the meat for the dog before she gave it to him.

SHE realized that it was easier to feed it out of her mouth for a while than it was for a dog.

THIS Pomeranian was so highly pedigreed that it wouldn't even bark at another dog unless they were introduced.

BUT even dogs aren't infallible, and once he did flirt with an airedale, when the maid wasn't looking.

STILL, the maid was flirting with a policeman at the time, so she didn't dare tell on the dog.

ONE woman thought so much of her dog that when his eyes got weak she made him wear glasses.

SHE gave him so much medicine all the time that the dog used to go around the house with his mouth open.

HE even stopped in front of every drug store they came to.

WHENEVER he'd see a doctor on the street he'd run up to him and show his tongue out.

THE dog was so highly bred that he wouldn't eat his supper unless the servant who fed him had evening clothes on.

HIS mistress was so careful of his health that she used to give him a dose of cough medicine every time he barked.

HE was so fond of his mistress that whenever she stopped speaking to one of the neighbors, he snubbed their dog.

ONE woman let her dog kiss her all the time, but the dog didn't care, he used to belong to a painter.

IT'S wonderful for a person to love animals, but it's getting so that dogs are crowding the children right out of our baby buggies.

ONCE OVERS

(Copyright, 1923, by International Feature Service, Inc.)

OVERCOME SELFISHNESS AND GET MORE OUT OF LIFE.

Sometimes you feel generous and would like to do something in the way of kindness to a fellow being and at other times you feel close and narrow and have only a desire to accumulate money.

You feel better when you have the good and generous impulses, and this ought to prove something to you.

It ought to prove to you that you will get a lot more out of life if you encourage your selfishness, your mean impulses.

But, on the other hand, it is quite true of you that you do not let such good impulses have much sway, and you use little personal effort in getting a better spirit to help diminish your selfishness.

You are quarrelsome at times—want to dispute with some one.

You come and show this spirit where you are employed, but you do not feel any such curbing influence when you reach home, or when the home folks are your only companions.

Your feelings are pent up at your place of business and you dare not show your spiteful traits, but you are not afraid of your family and they have to take it.

These spells are more frequent of late, so watch out that they do not gain mastery of you.

New York Stock Market Continues Dull With an Undertone of Strength

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Will prices rise or fall between now and the end of the year?

Nobody can pretend to foretell with certainty. But the prospects are that, if all parties cooperate to bring about good business, prices will advance in the Fall rather than decline.

* * *

So much has been written and said about falling prices of late that the public has exaggerated ideas of just how far prices have dropped. These exaggerated ideas are certain to be intensified by the latest spectacular break in wheat, as the front pages of the newspapers have been blazoning big headlines reading "Dollar Wheat." "Wheat Drops Below Dollar at Chicago" "Wheat Prices Below Cost of Production," etc.

* * *

Now, just where do prices stand?

How do they compare with the weak prices registered at the bottom of the after the war boom?

How do they compare with the low level touched during the subsequent depression?

How do they compare with prices of a year ago?

How do prices at the opening of the present month compare with the prices ruling at the beginning of the year?

* * *

Prices in May, 1920, touched the high-water mark of 2¼ times the 1913 average.

By June, 1921, they were back with 15 per cent. of the 1913 level.

On July 1, last year, prices stood at 131½, or less than one-third above the 1913 average which, to all these calculations is put at 100.

By January 1 of this year prices had touched 141.

* * *

The opening of the present month shows a decline of 7 points during the present year, an advance of 11 points as compared with a year ago, and advance of 41 points over the low point touched after the boom, but a drop of 43 points from the after the war maximum reached in May, 1920.

* * *

It will thus be seen from these Brudstreet compilations that the decline during the last six months has been mild. As a matter of fact, prices today are well above what they were at the beginning of last fall.

* * *

According to Irving Fisher's weekly index numbers, prices receded during the last three months just about as much as they advanced during the first three months of 1923.

* * *

True, the tendency during June was downward. Mr. Fisher computed the purchasing power of the dollar in the first week of June at 82½ cents as compared with the purchasing power in 1912. In the fourth week of June the dollar's purchasing power was reckoned by him at 84¾ cents.

* * *

And the trend since the first of the month has continued downwards.

* * *

Much of the recent hesitancy in placing contracts has been due to a widespread feeling that prices are going to keep on facing down and down during the next months. Business men are not much like those who dabble in the stock market. When uncertain as to the trend they usually wait. If they will continue to go up and up. Then, when a sharp break occurs, the rank and file confident that quotations will go lower and lower.

But the attitude of financial leaders is quite different. Their habit is to sell out when quotations are booming and to buy heavily after quotations have collapsed.

* * *

The Harvard Economic Research Bureau predicts better business and better prices during the current half-year, living Fish, ex-Yale, authority—feels exactly the same way. And this view is shared by quite a few other experienced economists.

* * *

Business men would do well to consider these fundamental facts. Stocks throughout the country admittedly are high. New ordering has been severely restricted during the last three months. Meanwhile, however, consumption has been going on practically unabated. Moreover the purchasing power of nearly all the farmers has been increasing and is today greater than ever before in the nation's history.

Against this must be set the diminished purchasing power of wheat growers. But the value of our entire crop is not so much less than the value of our wheat crop year after year, and cotton growers are enjoying prices high enough to continue to enjoy very satisfactory purchasing power. Then, too, all agricultural prices as not as low as wheat prices.

* * *

Is it not logical to reason that when depleted stocks have to be replenished in the Fall, the effect will be to force up prices at least a little, especially as labor costs will be high?

* * *

It will be prudent to examine all sides of the problem before concluding too definitely that prices cannot do other than move in the direction they are now moving. Remember every land has a turning.

AMERICAN CAR HAS LIVELY RECOVERY

New York Stock Exchange transactions today continued dull but with an undertone of strength. American Car & Foundry had a lively recovery, up 4 points, but then reacted. Call money started at 5 per cent.

There were point or better changes on the up side for American Can, American Locomotive, Baldwin, Bethlehem Steel, General Electric, Great Northern Ore, Gulf States Steel, American Bosch, Republic Steel, Studebaker and Stewart Warner Speedometer.

U. S. STEEL SHADED.

Schulte Stores was a point lower at 93⅝. Du Pont and Corn Products were both up better than 2 points.

U. S. Steel sold at a small loss around noon, after showing strength all the morning.

Famous Players dropped over a point.

Delaware & Hudson net operating income for first six months (three estimates) computed on flow fonts formula shows indicated annual rate of 11.1 per cent. on common, against 6.3 per cent. on same basis in first five months and actual earnings of 41 per cent. of fixed charges in '22.

Weekly statement of the federal reserve system showed a decrease of $83,000,000 in re-discounts, while the increase of deposits gained a point to 97.4 per cent. over the previous week.

FOREIGN SETTLEMENT.

Some optimistically inclined view of opinion that speech of Premier Baldwin in British Parliament may lead to negotiations that will eventually result in a settlement of reparations problem and a partial solution of reparations and that the resultant stabilization of European conditions would in turn lead to benefit to American business. All this remains to be seen.

Of more immediate bearing is, perhaps, the course of late national trade that has been so unfavorable for fire months recently. If exports of cotton and grain should pick up or if exports of capital represented by purchases of foreign securities for business expansion abroad should increase, the trend might be reversed. But there are no signs of this as yet.

As a matter of fact, the plight of the farmers appears to be growing serious as the increase of April values over the low point of dollar wheat has not ended. Pressure for rail rate reduction from the farm bloc is sure to be increased as the result of this situation.

WOLVERINE IS AT NEW TOP IN BOSTON

Bought on the strength of the proposed Mohawk-Michigan Wolverine merger, the last-named merger rose to a new high on the current move today on the Boston Stock Exchange, when it changed hands at 42. The dividend rate would soon be restored. As a matter of fact, the great Northern is in a better position now to increase the dividend rate than when the stock was selling at 95. If 1923 sales were reading like a 10 per cent railroad income reports you will probably be disappointed at the showing made by the Great Northern when it takes into account the fact that this road, like all others operated in the Northwest, finds its active season in the late Summer and early Fall.

WORTHINGTON PUMP.

To R. D. V., Elder street. Confidential information you requested follows—Worthington Pump Common —Junior shares of machinery manufacturing company formed under Massachusetts laws in 1902, to hold the entire capital stock of the Commercial Cable Company and the common and preferred shares known as the Postal System. The former subsidiary owns five transatlantic cables and a large line in the Pacific connecting San Francisco with Manila, Shanghai and the Danish Islands near Yokohama. The Postal Telegraph Company operates a telegraph and in some cases a long distance telephone system connecting these cities and towns in the United States.

The present capital of the companies consists of $50,000,000 of 4 per cent. cumulative preferred stock and $41,580,000 of common stock, both in shares of $100 par value. No bonded debt is outstanding. The common stock is quoted in Boston at about $105 a share, according to the latest advice sheet.

The consolidated earnings amounted to $4,226,182 in 1922. In the past ten years they have fluctuated within an extremely narrow range, the highest point having been $4,626,466 in 1917, and the lowest $4,104,685 in 1914. It is the policy of the Mackay companies to take only a moderate amount from subordinate companies to pay dividends on the stock of the parent company. The balance of earnings is left with the subsidiaries, to enable them to provide for extensions, betterments and to create reserves.

The volume of business handled by the land lines of the company the past year was the largest in history and a satisfactory profit was realized, according to President Clarence H. Mackay, who said that the company was not worried over radio competition, being of the opinion that the new method of electrical communication will not supersede cables nor reduce the value of submarine cable property.

The Postal Telegraph Company will accept messages for transmission by the Radio Corporation of America, beginning with a contract made in July, 1922.

GREAT NORTHERN.

To R. T., Dale street.—Great Northern stock executed its advance in a bull market, when traders and the public in general were willing to swallow any kind of rumor just so long as it was optimistic. This stock sold up on more than a 7 per cent. dividend rate would soon be restored. As a matter of fact, the great Northern is in a better position now to increase the dividend rate than when the stock was selling at 95. If 1923 sales were reading like a 10 per cent railroad income reports you will probably be disappointed at the showing made by the Great Northern when it takes into account the fact that this road, like all others operated in the Northwest, finds its active season in the late Summer and early Fall.

MOODY'S LOOKS FOR DRAGGING MARKET

Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions says:

"Numerous arguments that business is in a sound condition appear no doubt from the feeling on the part of financiers that the public needs to be reassured.

"Such reassurance, however, in order to be convincing must ultimately have to come ultimately from lower operating ratios, more moderate labor costs, firmer commodity prices, a better agricultural outlook, more dependable margins of profit, and greater stability in the prices of securities. The argument that counts with the typical investor and business man is the one that shows in his own balance sheet.

"In the past whenever a bear movement comparable to this was followed several months of so-called distribution—no bull movement subsequently began until after the stock market had dragged on bottom some time and trade conditions had been placed upon a somewhat footing.

These tokens of soundness invariably were a moderate labor supply, an elimination of speculative demand by smaller freight car loadings and reduced steel consumption; a higher degree of liquidity manifested by numerous failures of weak concerns; and a moderate amount of speculation indicated by a fall in bank exchanges.

"The average price of capital, or yield of new bond issues for the second quarter of 1923 was 6.42 per cent., against 6.05 per cent. for the first quarter, and 5.24 per cent. for the first half of 1921. We look for a moderate further rise in the price of capital running the greater part of a year."

Boston Notes

WEYMOUTH will receive proposals until July 16 for purchase of 40,000 of 4½ per cent. coupon "almshouse" bonds.

SALEM will receive bids until July 18 for purchase of $30,000 of 4½ per cent. surface drainage loan bonds.

LAKE dumpings of coal for season of July 4 were 11,007,475 tons, a record for the period.

BROCKTON will receive proposals until July 18 for discount of a temporary revenue loan of $200,000.

ARIZONA Commercial's recently ordered dividend, marking a resumption, will make total of $5.10 a share paid since property once sold at 10 cents a share.

NEW HAVEN officials were pioneer in adopting motor car for railroad use, and are putting much faith in this branch of public service.

BOSTON & MAINE and Narragansett Pier Railroads in New England have followed and will seek a lead in adopting motor car to solve unprofitable branch mileage problem.

AT Silver Dyke property, controlled by American Zinc, operations are being conducted at profit and outlook, say officials, is encouraging.

AMERICAN Zinc Co. is doing satisfactory volume of zinc oxide business at fair profit.

PRESIDENT GROSS of New River Co. says he will let his coal lie in mines rather than mine at present prices.

COAL is coming from the mines in substantial tonnage and the car supply has greatly improved.

FIRST decline in coal prices at tide water was reported right among buyers who are adopting standoff policy, believing they will be able to cover requirements much cheaper in the near future.

LOAN IN ANTICIPATION OF REVENUE FOR 1923.

THE TOWN OF FRAMINGHAM will receive bids until one o'clock P. M., July 17, 1923, for the purchase, at discount, of a TEMPORARY LOAN of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) in anticipation of the revenue of the current year. THE LOAN WILL MATURE July 11, 1924.

THE LOAN CONSISTS OF FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS each, or in such denominations as may be agreed upon, and will be ready for delivery on or about July 23, 1923, or at such time as can be registered and certified by the Department of Taxation and Corporations. Only Chapter 44 of the Acts of 1920 and amendments thereof and thereto.

SAID NOTES will be made on the STANDARD engraved forms as prescribed by Chapter 44 of the Acts of 1920, and will bear the certificate of the Treasurer of Framingham, whom a copy of the vote authorizing this issue will be filed.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids, also to accept any bid that may be offered.

Bids should be sealed and marked "PROPOSALS FOR LOAN" and addressed and mailed to:

JOHN P. DINN,
Town Treasurer,
Framingham, Middlesex County, Massachusetts.

MT. vole, Faustina Ciardulli, and 3 children, left my bed and board, and I will not be responsible for bills contracted by her after this date. JOSEPH C

Mr. Daugherty's Good Work in Government's Dye Patents Case

Friends of Woodrow Wilson Will Not Thank Anybody for Trying to Drag Him Into the Scandal of the Dye Patents

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

The people ought to understand clearly the suit that Mr. Daugherty, representing the United States government, is bringing against men that "deprived"—to use a polite word—the rightful owners of millions of dollars' worth of property.

The fact that the very rough and "coarse" work of confiscating was carried out under government supervision and protection makes it all the worse.

Those that seek to connect former President Woodrow Wilson with the scandal render him and his reputation a poor service. It is well-known that when the property of foreigners and Americans was being ingeniously confiscated, Woodrow Wilson had the burden of the war on his shoulders and no time for details.

Therefore, the less said about Woodrow Wilson in connection with the wholesale robbery that Mr. Daugherty is attacking the better.

In as few words as possible this is the charge that the Attorney-General makes, and it should be pushed to the end. It ought to push several gentlemen into jail.

Men appointed by the United States government took over—AS TRUSTEES FOR THE OWNERS—properties of German citizens found in this country during the war.

Those entrusted with such property were, in fact, "common law trustees."

Nobody will deny that a common law trustee, having in his possession the property of others, and selling that property to HIMSELF at a dishonest, thievish price, would be nothing else but dishonest and a thief, and ought to go to jail.

The property of Germans held by the common law trustees in question, that are now being prosecuted by the Attorney-General, included four thousand patents connected with the dye industry worth at least a hundred millions of dollars.

Those patents were worth a hundred millions of dollars because the exploitation of such patents, which represented practically a monopoly of the dye industry, would have made it easy to earn gigantic interest on a hundred millions and at the same time pay off the principal of that sum within the life of the patents.

The suit that the Attorney-General is bringing is based upon the following accusation:

That the COMMON LAW TRUSTEES SOLD to themselves for $225,000 PROPERTY ENTRUSTED TO THEM THAT WAS WORTH ONE HUNDRED MILLIONS.

The fact that those accused by the Attorney-General are enormously rich and well-known, the fact that they maintain an expensive publicity bureau at Washington, should not protect them from the law.

The suit against them should not be merely a suit to force RESTITUTION of property.

Either they took it honestly or they did not. If they took it honestly they should keep it. If they did NOT take it honestly they should return it and go to JAIL. That is what happens to people that take property dishonestly.

Meanwhile the Attorney-General is to be thanked for his energetic action and for the fact that neither the "respectability" nor the great wealth of those accused has saved them from prosecution and kind of publicity entirely different from what they purchase through their publicity agents.

No Corsets for FAT Men

They Must Suffer for the Good of All

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

Dr. Millard of Toronto says that many men need corsets, especially fat men, NOT to improve their appearance or squeeze in their fronts, but for the sake of health.

It is true, as William J. Bryan has said, that man in the course of evolution, gradually learning to stand on his hind legs, has had many things to overcome. His insides have sagged down, pressing each other, instead of being held lightly by the ribs and abdominal muscles, as they were when he went on all fours.

BUT the corset suggestion is bad. Corsets, without pressure, are useful for women at certain times, because of an extra burden put upon them. But human beings should learn to stand erect without sagging down. They must learn to use the diaphragm and make the best of that upright position.

It is worth a little discomfort to be able to look at the stars, and fat men should suffer along with the others.

Should Be Jailed if Guilty

The Woburn police and Federal Officer Goodrich have seized in Woburn one of the largest moonshine plants in the State.

The still was capable of holding 450 gallons. The police found 80 metal tanks, which contained 100 gallons of liquor mash, being a total, therefore, of 8,000 gallons. They also found three tons of sugar, 50 barrels of moonshine ready for delivery and 40 metal 5-gallon cans and 2½ barrels of kerosene.

The same place in question was raided some time ago.

Now, if this Caponi, who is alleged to have owned this still, is guilty, and is not given a good stiff jail sentence such as will discourage his kind from going into this business or staying in it, then the judge who imposes a fine and the district attorney who recommends it will stand flagrantly guilty of an intent to sabotage the prohibition law.

Hurt on Errand of Mercy

A young man, Harry Lanzello, twenty-two years old, who lives in the South End, was injured while climbing a tree to restore a little fallen bird to its nest. As he was coming down the tree from his mission of mercy he fell and one of the iron pickets of the fence pierced his skull. He died later.

The ways of Providence are inscrutable altogether. Lowell in his "Crisis" asked why "right was always on the scaffold and wrong was always on the throne." All we can do is to say "Amen" to Pope's lines:

"Know then thyself, presume not God to scan;
The proper study of mankind is man."

OLD PARIS RESORTS GOING

PARIS, July 13.—Almost gone are the old Boulevard landmarks celebrated in Paris history. Now the Grand Cafe at the corner of the rue Scribe is about to disappear, and with it the famous Jockey Club, whose headquarters were in rooms above.

It is going the way of the Cafe Anglais, Tortoni's and the Maison Doree, where the Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, used to dine with a host of gay friends.

Count Your Change

Editor Boston American:

Is the commercial world growing more dishonest? I notice that in these days one must count his change carefully after he makes a purchase. I rarely did it in the days before the war and do not think I lost much, except occasionally through being "short-changed" by a waiter. Now it occurs frequently and I can hardly believe the cashier, salesman or clerk does it accidentally in most cases.

A SUFFERER.

Real Men Scarce

Editor Boston American:

Male knockers of the flapper especially those sad-faced boys who yearn for the return of the old-fashioned girl—judge solely from exteriors. They fail to see the shining merits struggling beneath. As a matter of fact, if there were a few old-fashioned boys in this cake-eater world I wouldn't say a word. Real men today are comparable to the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

Young Mother Deserted

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a young mother, twenty-two years old. I have a baby a year old and expect to be a mother again soon. My husband has left me and I am alone to earn my own living and baby's. I would appreciate some baby clothes for the two babies and myself. I wear size 46.

MRS. L. I. T.

Sends Two Dollars

Editor Helping Hand:

I am still waiting to hear from you in regard to some slippers and shoes. Now I am sending you two dollars to do as you like with, and I am glad to do my part. If there is any little girl about two years old that is in want of a home I am only too glad to give her one.

MRS. E. T.

Many thanks for this, your latest gift. It has been added to the Helping Hand Fund. The address of E. M. P. has been sent you in regard to the shoes.

Patient Needs

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a patient in a tuberculosis sanitorium with pulmonary tuberculosis and TB of the arm, the use of which will probably be destroyed. I am married, but it is all my family can do to keep going. I need two sets of Summer pajamas, size 38 or B, men's. I would be very grateful if someone could send them to me.

J. W. McK.

Thanks to Mrs. P. L. C.

Editor Helping Hand:

I wish to acknowledge a parcel post package from Mrs. P. L. C., of Worcester. It was simply grand. She sent each boy a pair of pants, a pair of shoes, and goods for a new waist, and even sent a pattern with them. Also another parcel came from Emily D., who sent clothes for the eight-year-old girl, and some lovely things to be made over.

MRS. R. B.

Money for Baby Food

Editor Helping Hand:

Enclosed you will find one dollar to help buy baby food for Mrs. M. S. 2. She asked for baby food in Thursday's American. Here's hoping she will get others to help a little also.

MRS. J. C. D.

The one dollar has been sent to Mrs. M. S. 2, and with the other help she has received will put her baby on Easy street, practically speaking. You failed to send your address, so we are taking this opportunity of adding our thanks to Mrs. M. S.'s.

Clothes for Girl of 12

Editor Helping Hand:

I have been interested for some time in the letters published in the American. I have clothing for a girl twelve or fourteen and perhaps older. If you will let me know of a girl needing clothes, I will take them to her.

O. E. C.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. I. C., who is trying to clothe six children and fight sickness all at once.

Girl Needs Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a little girl thirteen years old and I need clothes very badly. My mother and I are alone. She works in the shoe shop and she isn't getting much money as work is very dull here.

MISS M. B.

Sent Box and $2

Editor Helping Hand:

I wish to thank you for your help. Mrs. M. sent me a box of things for myself and two dollars and said she would send my two-year-old a pair of shoes. I wrote and thanked her. I can't write more because I have the four-year-old sick with swollen glands and a fussy baby in my arms.

M. S.

Needs An Outing

Editor Helping Hand:

I saw in your column the article about a lady giving a girl a Summer vacation. I am writing you to see if another kind lady would like to have a good Christian girl, aged thirteen, who would be willing to do dishes or other light duties or care for children. I would like to get her out of the hot, dusty city awhile before going back to school.

J. E. M.

Father Badly Hurt

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a poor woman with a little boy six and a little girl twelve. My husband got hurt about three years ago. He cut his foot almost off, so that he is unable to work much. We are all needy in need of clothes. I wear size 40. I can make things over.

MRS. N. M. T.

Needs Boy's Suits

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please ask some of your readers if they have any boy's suits that their boys have outgrown. My son is fifteen, weighs 125 pounds and is five feet three inches high. I just cannot buy him a new one unless I get it on credit and we have too many bills now. My husband has three hours' work a day and we are barely paying the rent and buying food. I can mend anything. His shoes are size 5½. Does any woman, trying to make a living by dressmaking, need a dress form? I will give her one. It is adjustable, on castors.

A. M. B.

Thank you for the offer of the dress form. It will be held for someone as you suggest.

Two Dollars Sent

Editor Helping Hand:

Enclosed find two dollars for the woman who is the mother of seven children who needs glasses and cannot afford to buy them. Have mislaid paper and cannot remember the initials. Trust this will help her some.

MRS. M. A. T.

We suppose you mean Mrs. E. V. D. 2. The two dollars will be forwarded her, and I am sure will help her greatly. Many thanks.

Shoes for Woman

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you send me the address of some young woman that I may send her some shoes size 5 or 5½, B width. MRS. C. H. R.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of M. E. C., who takes this size.

Other Offers

GET A BLOOD TEST AND CONSULT THE X-RAY

By Herbert Kaufman

STOCKTAKING time is here. Business is investigating its condition, checking up, overhauling machinery and getting in shape for the next season.

Doctors advise you to do likewise. Everybody needs a semi-annual physical inventory. We draw too much upon vital stores without replacing them, overdrive dynamos and disregard exhaustions.

The surgeon and the physician don't want to deal with bankrupt organizations—they'd rather do a little necessary adjusting than rip and cut and rebuild.

Call up your doctor tomorrow and arrange for a diagnosis. Then celebrate New Year's with another survey.

You may have an incipient case of cancer. Pathologists fear that the prevalence of this still ineradicable horror has been grossly understated. The last word from the laboratories indicates infection through dog and cat fleas.

An international medical convention, soon to be held in Chicago, will suggest a dozen more reasons why you should submit to regular blood tests and X-ray examination.

You never can tell what a little thing will lead to.

He Can't Find a Tasty Crow Sauce

It's the little things that cause most of our trouble.

Trivialities rewrite history.

Poland might have become the dominant power of the continent if her envoys had not precipitated war with Russia by childishly wounding the pride of Czar Alexis through deliberate omission of one et cetera in his list of exalted titles.

The fate of Europe, and possibly civilization, depends upon the ability of France to retire gracefully from a stand which has provoked a showdown with Britain, and promises to isolate her in the Ruhr.

Her trans-Rhine adventure fast approaches an impasse. Germany is swiftly disintegrating. A dollar will soon buy 300,000 marks. Occupation has produced nothing but constant misunderstanding and loss.

Cables overbear London and Paris whispering details of a plan which will permit Poincare to retreat from his position without eating crow.

A statesman would rather save his face than his country. At least a hundred million have perished to uphold such morbid conceptions of honor.

Shakespeare knew "What fools these mortals be."

Matters of Etiquette

Doctor Paine of Boston is a blue-stocking and a descendant of signers, but hardly a gallant. He damns himself in a published apology which reminds Mrs. Hague that she did not object to the playful antics that preceded his chaste kiss.

Insinuation riots through the postscript of his letter: "Can't help thinking that you owe me an apology for acting as you did."

That isn't done by correct folk, parson! A gentleman has been defined as one who never lies about a woman, but on proper occasion is always ready to lie for her.

Social circles get another shock. The suave and charming Ali Kemal Fahme Bey, whose exotic entertainment highlighted the Tutankhamen season, is found bleeding to death in a corridor of the Hotel Savoy.

Scotland Yard holds his wife on a charge of murder. If her highness were a Cairene instead of a Parisian, the situation would probably have been reversed. Mohammedan princes manage most of the family slayings, especially when on native ground.

Oriental etiquette rules that ladies shall go first.

Dollar Wheat and the Consequences

The inevitable, but anticipated, has happened. Wheat, which at present overheads can't possibly be raised and marketed at the price, is back to a dollar.

Crop reports turn the Chicago pit into a slaughter pen. Bull traders go down under a frantic liquidation of holdings.

The great grain-growing States, hardly able to make ends meet for several years, may be prostrated by the blow.

Of course, the administration will be blamed for failing to protect agricultural interest.

Johnson, running neck and neck with Governor Preus in the bitterest Senate contest Minnesota remembers, won't hesitate to capitalize the crisis. Imagination already hears him rant at stock exchanges, corporations and money kings. Desperation turns willing ear to the promiser.

Radicalism flourishes in the shadow of the mortgage.

The rural blocs will have a much stronger say in the next Congress, and to the tune of billions.

This country can't remain prosperous unless its food producers are kept on their feet. Expansion of credit facilities and Federal guarantees for stockmen and farmers are resistless issues. Our daily bread must be insured.

Striking While the Iron's Hot

Labor, cocking an eye at nearing elections, also makes a show of strength. Samuel Gompers again prepares to assault Fort Gary, and warns the Steel Corporation to inaugurate an eight-hour-day and submit to unionization or the full resources of the American Federation shall be launched against the industry.

He likewise challenges the Coal Commission report, considers the document entirely advantageous to anthracite operators, points to the exorbitant profits companies have made, informs consumers that they deserve their fuel woes so long as the public withholds support from mine workers, and asserts that any proposition aiming to restrict the right to strike will be fought to the last ditch.

Railroad brotherhoods harass the stockticker by insisting upon pay advances in many instances higher than wartime peaks.

Every dog wants his day and manger.
